NOTHING NEW

Developed at Street Railway Hearing.

Arguments by Counsel to be Given Next Friday.

The adjourned hearing before the Railroad Commission on the question of service and of abolition of free transfers was held on Wednesday morning, and the room was filled with people from Newton, Needham and Waltham.

Among those noted were Messrs. A. D. Claflin, W. H. Coolidge, W. F. Hammett and J. L. Richards of the street railway company, City Solicitor Slocum, Aldermen Dennison, Webster, Baker, Carter, Cabot and Bishop, G. S. Smith, C. M. Goddard, Henry Baily, Rev. D. A. Morehouse, W. F. Harbach, A. H. Roffe, Thos. White, J. Weston Allen, A. S. Hutchinson, G. B. King, A. H. Elder, H. W. Colby, F. A. O'Connor, Frank Fanning, T. J. Sullivan, H. C. Fisher, J. W. Fisher, G. T. Van Norman, W. H. Gould, H. H. Read, J. G. Tompson, E. O. Childs, Jr., J. C. Ivy, Winthrop Coffin, Allston Burr and L. E. Moore.

Chairman Jackson read a statement from the expert accountant of the Commission to the effect that the sworn statements of the officers were correct and that he found a deficit for the past three years of $135,286.53.

A. S. Hutchinson for the Newton Highlands Improvement Society asked many questions of President Claflin relative to the difference between the various expenditures of the company for the past few years. Mr. Claflin said that in 1901 salaries were increased because the critical condition of the company demanded considerable time. At present the officers receive no salary. Office expenses had been increased because of increase in number of free transfers. The increase in cost of repairs of road bed, care of electrical lines, electrical equipment etc. was because the line had been neglected for many years and the new management had to rebuild the road. The question of the lease of the Newtonville and Watertown line was touched on, and the papers were to be submitted to the board. In the matter of electric power, the company made money at first by selling power to other lines. Large expenses in rebuilding its power station, on which no repairs had been made for 8 years, had caused this item to largely increase. By mutual agreement, the recent extra cost of coal was partially borne by other roads.

A casual statement by Mr. Hutchinson that the damage account might be caused by "careless management" was resented by Mr. Claflin and Mr. Hutchinson admitted that it was only a jocose remark.

In answer to questions by Mr. J. Weston Allen, Mr. Claflin stated that there were 8 stockholders in the company. The Boston Suburban Company has hundreds of stockholders. All of whom have an interest in the N. & B. Co. through trustees. In answer to questions by Mr. Jesse C. Ivy, Mr. Claflin said he was advised that it was not necessary to obtain the approval of the commission on the abolition of free transfers. He said there was no contract with the city regarding free transfers. He believed the roads would earn a reasonable dividend on a five cent fare although none of the roads would pay if proper charges were made for depreciation, etc.

The Newton & Boston had a friendly relation with the associated roads. Mr. Ivy endeavored to show that the Company was but the figurehead for the larger interests of the consolidated roads, but Chairman Jackson said the commission was obliged to deal only with the material facts of the company. The commission was having an expert appraisal made of the property and already had the operating expenses, capitalization and receipts submitted. Mr. Jackson said they could not give weight to tales regarding sale of stocks and thought with the actual facts before them the board could reach a sound conclusion regarding the financial condition of the Company. Mr. Ivy said that the dealings between the companies showed what they thought of the value of the property, but Mr. Jackson said the board must stick to the rule of valuation as determined by investigation. He assumed that the different relationships of the companies would be given some consideration.

In the afternoon a long discussion followed the request of Mr. Allen that the Company show its ledger summary of its dealings with the associated companies. Mr. Claflin claimed that this would be valueless unless given in detail, which would involve from one to three weeks clerical labor. Mr. Coolidge said he did not want any delay, as the Company must have either a prompt and favorable reply from the commission or go into the hands of a receiver.

Mr. Allen said he was authorized by the Society to insist upon a return to 20 minute service and to oppose the abolition of free transfers.

City Solicitor Stearns of Waltham said the sentiment of his city was opposed to the curtailment of free transfers.

Mr. G. B. King said the present inconvenience of running time should be immediately remedied, and intimated that the public were being used as a lever to force the matter of transfers.

Mr. Benjamin Dickerman tried to bring in an old complaint regarding the illegal use of his land by the company but was ruled out by the chairman.

Mr. John Drennan of Adams street Newton protested on behalf of the workingmen against the abolition of free transfers.

Mr. Joseph Temperley said the working people were the best patrons of the line and he had frequently seen the cars crowded with passengers. He believed they would rather have poor service however than give up the transfers.

Mr. W. B. Draper wanted better service and less noise, and thought the previous service had been satisfactory. He also complained of the poor cars which were run.

Arguments of counsel will be made Friday morning March 11th.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

Tremont Theatre—Unquestionably much of the popularity enjoyed by "The Prince of Pilsen" is due to its really "wonderful" music—wonderful in the sense that all of its nineteen numbers are successes. Playgoers are familiar with the dainty theme of "The Message of the Violet," and with the poetry of "The Tale of a Seashell." The men in the audience are delighted with "Pictures in the Smoke," as it is essentially "a man's song," and then there is "Heidelberg," sung by a male octet, one of the daring innovations introduced by Henry W. Savage, who goes on the plan that primarily a chorus is put into a musical composition to be sung, hence the fame of "the famous Savage choruses." "The Song of the Cities" has been greeted with greater favor than anything seen in musical comedy or light opera, in years. To put it all in a nutshell, the score of "The Prince of Pilsen" is being played by the bands of the army and navy and is whistled all over the country. The brilliant work of Pixley and Luders will be seen at the Tremont Theatre for the three weeks beginning next Monday.

Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R.

The annual meeting of this Chapter was held at Mrs. George Agry's, 47 Park street, Newton, last Tuesday morning. The Regent, Mrs. F. E. Stanley, occupied the chair, and followed the usual routine of business. Three new members were elected, Miss Lucretia J. Fuller, Mrs. Francis Murdock and Mrs. Edgar W. Warren. In spite of the storm a goodly number had gathered to listen to the annual reports of Treasurer, Secretaries and a most amusing resume of the events of the year by the historian, Mrs. F. T. Benner. The membership has grown to 130. Five regular meetings have been held besides a reception, lawn party, June outing and two whist parties the latter held to increase the fund for patriotic work, $140 having been given away for various purposes. Miss Anna Whiting, Director of Caleb Stark Chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters, gave an encouraging report of growth and interest. One member, Miss Lillian Ware has become a member of the Senior Chapter, and is now regent of the Dolly Madison Chapter, of Radcliffe College. The nominating committee presented the following ballot, which was duly elected. Regent, Mrs. Francis E. Stanley; honorary regent, Mrs. Alexander M. Ferris; vice regents, Mrs. S. Curtis Smith, Mrs. James H. Wheeler, Jr., Mrs. George B. King; recording secretary, Mrs. Edward W. Howe; corresponding secretary, Miss Clara J. Coburn; ass. cor. secretary, Mrs. W. H. Bliss; treasurer, Mrs. John H. Sanborn; executive committee, Mrs. Lew C. Hill, Miss M. K. Wheeler, Mrs. A. H. Clifford, Miss Virginia W. Mellen; auditors, Mrs. S. D. Whittemore, Director of Caleb Stark Chapter, Junior Sons and Daughters, Miss Anna M. Whiting. Delegates and alternates were also elected to attend the annual meeting of the general society to be held in Boston the first week in May.

"AT HOLLY TREE INN."

Newton to See Stage Production of Dickens' Story.

NORAH. (Marie G. Wright.) COBBS. (E. W. Wright.) HARRY. (Louise E. Wright.)

One of the "Holly Tree Inn" stories, the most delightful of Dickens' lighter sketches, has been prepared for stage production by Leverett D. G. Bentley and is to be given under the auspices of the Entertainment Club in Channing church parlors Wednesday, March 16 at 8 p. m., together with a two act farce, entitled "The Blunderers."

Bold as it may appear, Mr. Bentley's adaptation of "Holly Tree Inn" has been so constructed as to preserve every charm of the narrative, though permitting of its presentation in one act. This, however, has not been accomplished without the introduction of new dialogue. There is also incidental music of an appropriate character, but these innovations, it is confidently believed serve only to heighten the beauty of the piece.

The play is intended as a curtain-raiser, but differs from the ordinary in that its chief characters are two children, a boy of 9 years and a girl of 7. Master Harry Walmer, for that is the little fellow's name in the play, has been his father's companion on many drives and long walks through the country and has thus acquired a high appreciation of manly qualities, among them a susceptibility to the wiles of the gentler sex.

His aptitude as a pupil has so pleased his father that the latter has extended the range of subjects and has taught the boy many songs and stories. Some of these are sentimental and have made, it appears, a more than common impression upon the boy.

About this time there appears on the scene Mistress Norah, Master Harry's cousin, and the young gallant's heart goes out to her. She responds with all the modest fervor of a young miss of good training, and there the romance begins.

Then there are Cobbs, the handy man about Holly Tree Inn; Sam Battles, landlord of that hostelry, and Sir Henry Walmer, father of Master Harry. The presence of these characters is not only essential, but adds much to the interest of the story, playing as it does a most important part in the ending, if not the beginning of the romance.

The cast of characters in the coming presentation of the Entertainment club is as follows:

Sir Henry Walmer Harold Dudley Greeley
Sam Battles Leighton W. Whitely
Cobbs Ernest W. Wright
Master Harry Louise E. Wright
Mistress Norah Marie G. Wright

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Another special meeting of the board of aldermen was held last Monday evening to draw jurors for the Middlesex County courts.

President Saltonstall was in the chair and Aldermen Barber, Bishop, Brown, Carter, Ellis, Ensign, Day, Mellen, Palmer, Riley and White were present.

Alderman Mellen drew these names from the jury box: Arthur M. Gooch, Warren street, was selected as a grand juror, and Walter A. Beedle, Charlesbank road, Albert G. Seavey, Edinboro street and George Beck were drawn as traverse jurors.

The board adjourned at 7:55 p. m.

Colossal Figures in Life Insurance

What Do They Mean?

The published statements of banks, trust companies and industrial concerns command the attention of persons interested in them as investors or depositors; the Annual Statements of great Life Insurance Companies are read by the mass of the people with all the interest that attaches to the more important news of the day. It cannot be otherwise when practically every family in every community feels that its own fortunes are closely connected with and dependent upon the operations of one or more of these tremendous beneficent associations.

The Metropolitan Life puts forth a statement of its business in 1903, presenting an array of figures that shows impressively the intimate relations between this institution and the whole people. In one item alone an amazing fact is stated. It is that giving the number of policies in force on the last day of the year—more than 7,500,000—showing that one person in every ten of the entire population of the United States is insured in this Company.

In other items the figures are too large to convey any clear meaning until they are divided and subdivided and made to apply to days and hours instead of years. For example, this great Company has paid to and invested for its policy holders since organization, over $238,000,000—a sum that will impress the average reader merely as being vast and very vague. There is quick comprehension, however, when we learn by a little calculation that during 1903 the amount thus distributed among policy holders averaged $89 a minute during every working day of the year. Every day in the year 359 claims were paid; every day in the year more than 6,000 new policies were written. At the end of every day in the year the Company's Assets were more than $50,000 greater than in the morning. Its total assets at the end of the year were more than $105,000,000. Its total income for the one year 1903 was over $49,000,000.

Going back twenty years we have some comparative figures that tell a story of almost incredible growth. The Company's income for the year 1883 was a little over $3,000,000; for 1893 little over $15,000,000; for 1903 over $49,000,000; its surplus since 1883 has increased from about $627,000 to over $10,000,000. When we come to the amount of outstanding insurance at the end of the year we pass the billion mark. The exact sum is $1,323,381,457.00.

The Metropolitan Life received from premiums and other sources during 1903 over $6,050,000 more than in 1902. Considering the relative condition of the financial markets in these two years, this exhibit is at first surprising, then illuminating. In 1902 money was plentiful; public confidence in the manifold projects of promoters and financiers had never been stronger; "times were good." In 1903 these conditions were reversed. Thousands of hitherto prosperous wage earners were out of employment; others were forced to accept reduced wages; the incomes of the well-to-do shrank and dwindled; and everywhere there was a decided tendency to retrench and to withhold money from investment. Yet this was by far the most prosperous year of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's existence.

Nothing could show more plainly what Life Insurance really stands for in the minds of the people. It is not regarded as a speculative venture but a sure promise of security; a safe shelter when financial storm-clouds threaten general wreck. A concern like the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company is, of course a business organization, but it is one in which all of its policy holders are bona fide partners, "a company of the people, by the people and for the people," one that has known how to gain and how to justify the confidence of the whole community.

That is why no bank stockholder will read the annual report of his own prosperous bank with keener relish than people everywhere read this remarkable statement of the Metropolitan Life.

At the Theatres

Coming Attractions

Grand Opera House—Frank D. Bryan's musical farce comedy, the much sung of and talked about "The Funny Mr. Dooley" is next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House. It introduces the famous Dooley as a new type of stage Irishman, bubbling over with unctious humor and native drollery that is irresistible, with nothing in makeup or action to mar in the least a character that is natural and witty. Chorus of pretty, talented girls form charming composite pictures and give dash and movement to the many musical gems. The music is all new and written exclusively for this production and will be heard here for the first time. There will be the usual matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons during this engagement.

Park Theatre—What promises to be one of the quaintest and oddest of all this season's theatrical offerings—a play novelty that comes heralded as the laughing hit of the season—is soon to be seen at the Park Theatre where dear, delightful Mrs. Wiggs (that now national favorite, whose unfailing cheerfulness and deep human sympathy have made her everybody's friend, and who bids fair to become an immortal creation of American realism and humor) is to make her bow before the footlights on Monday evening, March 7, next, beginning a limited engagement. Madge Carr Cooke, the expert comedienne, who has so distinguished herself in a wide range of character roles, is said to give the half-humorous, half-touching and wholly lovable old lady an ideal incarnation. In the three-act dramatic version of Alice Hegan Rice's phenomenally popular Keith's Theatre—Coming to Keith's the week of March 7 are the following noted entertainers: Katherine Nelson, a clever singing comedienne, who imitates Lillian Russell, Marie Cahill, Adele Ritchie, and other stage favorites, and also does something in the line of pleasing entertainment on her own account Franz Humberty, one of the most skillful jugglers and equilibrists who has ever been seen in America; James J. Morton, a bright monologue comedian of decidedly original talent; Martinetti and Grossi, novelty entertainers, never before in this country, the Brittons, "real coon" singers and dancers, and Pete Baker, favorite German dialect comedian. An entire new set of motion pictures will be shown. Underlined for the week of March 14 is Annie Abbott, the noted "Georgia Magnet," whom a score of men cannot lift.

Majestic—"Arizona," which will appear at the Majestic Theatre on Monday night of next week, for one week only, has had a career of uninterrupted success in almost every large city of the east. It played in New York at the Herald Square Theatre and the Academy of Music for over 150 consecutive nights, and each and all of the cities universally agreed that it had achieved a distinction of being the only American drama by an American author which has ever reached this remarkable record in theatrical history. Augustus Thomas has, more than any other writer, laid the foundation and lower courses of the American drama which will one day develop into a most imposing situation. "Arizona," as the name implies, is a play which has its scenes, characters and incidents located in the far west. That it will be richly staged and excellently well acted is guaranteed by the names of the clever actors which Mr. Thomas has chosen for the principal roles of the play.

Columbia Theatre—Dion Boucicault's beautiful Irish drama, "Arrah Na Pogue," which has already been presented in Boston twice this season,

WILL T. HODGE,
(of "Sky Farm" fame)

As Mr. Stubbins, in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Beginning March 7, at the Park Theatre, Boston.

story, both of which have thus been dramatized for, Liebler & Co., an effective opportunity has been given Mrs. Wiggs for a revelation of her more deeply human tenderness and heart interest; while the newly invented stage plot will give an added interest, it is claimed, to the relations of Mrs. Wiggs and Lovey Mary, and will invest the runaway flight of that unhappy orphanage waif with an increased dramatic significance. Lovey Mary is the romantic figure of this dramatic version, and she is said to have a thoroughly sympathetic stage depiction by Mabel Taliaferro, who has been for several seasons past America's most distinguished child actress. All the queer Cabbage Patch characters are reproduced in fact in the three scenes laid in the Patch itself.

Globe Theatre—Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett has furnished Robert Hilliard with "That Man and I," which is considered by both author and critics to be the strongest and best play she has ever written. Robert Hilliard who is starring in this dramatic offering, has a part that fits him and his personality, and as a consequence he has scored a triumph. Supporting the star is a company of exceptional merit, including Maude Fealy and H. Reeves Smith. The production is recognized as being the most beautiful ever made in the history of the stage. Mr. Hilliard and his sterling company will begin the second and last week of the engagement of "That Man and I" at the Globe Theatre, Monday evening. The attraction announced to follow will be the well known comedian, Charles Grapewine, supported by Anna Chance and a big company in the musical comedy success, "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp."

pays a third visit to this city, coming to the Columbia theatre next Monday for the first time as a popular priced attraction. The play was presented early in the season at the Boston theatre. A few weeks ago it played to capacity business at the Majestic theatre and it might have run along at that house for several weeks had it not been for previous bookings which interfered with the stay of the piece. There is no question that "Arrah Na Pogue" is one of the most delightful plays that has ever been put upon the stage in this country, and this fact is best attested by the fact that it has outlived all others. J. K. Murray, who is featured with the production, has won much favor for his artistic conception of the character. The company is identically the same as that which was seen at the Majestic and "Arrah Na Pogue" should certainly prove a popular attraction with Columbia patrons.

Music Hall—One of the most thrilling effects ever conceived for stage use is said to be daringly realized in the air ship scene of "Hearts Adrift," the great melodramatic success by Langdon McCormick to be seen at Boston Music Hall next week. In the third act of the drama an air-ship is shown, flying through the air at incredible speed, the effect of height and flight being realized by a cunning combination of moving panorama of sky, with the earth indicated far below on a perspective canvas. "Hearts Adrift" is to be presented by almost the same cast which was seen at Music Hall last season and which is headed by E. L. Snader in the role of "Captain Teddy."

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

The Committee on Cities devoted considerable time last week to the various bills before the legislature proposing to regulate the manner in which theatres should be constructed and panics should be avoided. The hearings were held in one of the worst committee rooms in the State House, only exceeded in its unsanitary condition by the room occupied by the Committee on Public Health. The door of the room swings inward, there are no fire escapes, no practical ventilation and three fourths of the room is planned to be occupied by the committee of fifteen while the remaining one-fourth is devoted to the comfort and convenience of those who attend the hearings, numbering all the way from 40 to 100 people. It is useless to say that these arrangements, the committee is accommodated and the public is not, and when the room is filled, as it usually is, and the committee get their cigars well going, the manner in which a public hearing should not be held is most admirably illustrated. The discussion upon the manner in which theatres should be built and performances conducted, was very voluminous and might have been interrupted long enough to enlarge a trifle upon the question as to how committee rooms at the State House should be constructed. From about July 1 to January 1 these rooms meet the requirements but during much of the session most of them are exceedingly poor examples of modern construction and none of them recall the delightful sensations following a meditation of the scripture where it says "In my father's house are many mansions." Any theatre proprietor present, and there were many, might have very properly said to the Committee: "First cast out the mote in thine own eye and then canst thou see to cast out the beam in thy brother's eye."

In connection with the theatre question the comments of a prominent gentleman who is owner of one of the largest theatres in Boston contains about as sound reasoning as has come to the surface in all that has been said since the holocaust in Chicago. He says: "I think the mayor and building commissioner will take care of this matter better than it has ever been done before. I would make it an offense for an official to solicit a pass for himself, or anyone else, from any manager, and likewise an offense for any manager to offer a pass to any official. The pass system has been wholly unworthy the dignity of official positions and is really disgusting and injurious. What we want is not so much law as the enforcement thereof, and this should be rigid. The exercise of the simplest kind of ordinary care would have averted the Chicago disaster. I would like in some way to ask the Legislature to encourage those managers who try to build, equip, and run their houses properly, by providing in addition to the regulation for houses already constructed that it be an offense of a decided character for the licensing power to grant a license to any houses hereafter constructed which shall not in all respects fully comply with the provisions for construction, equipment, and management. What encouragement is it to construct and equip and run properly if new houses can be built and licensed with little or no attempt having been made to do so on their part? This has been done in the past."

The hearing held by the State House Committee Monday morning upon the bill for the correcting of errors in the description on the bronze tablet on the Hooker Statue on the State House grounds was the first legislative incident of note for the present week. As one entered the large committee room number 240 he could not but be impressed with the sight. The gathering was composed of white-headed men, some of them with but one arm, some with a leg missing, others with scars on their faces, but none without the fire of the veteran's eye and the vigor of a veteran's voice. The sturdiness of the Civil War veterans is remarkable. It must be something about their recollection of those early years in the sixties that renews the spirits of the boys of '61 and marks their generation as one of the most remarkable in American history. There was nothing indicating invalidism about the veterans who assembled Monday morning to do honor to the memory of Hooker. Every speaker, from Major Smith to Colonel Hazeltine seemed full of the fire and enthusiasm of forty years ago. Regarding the recasting of the tablet to correct any errors, perhaps the best way out of it would be for the legislature to authorize the Governor and council to remove the tablet and allow the statue to stand in all its silent, significant glory. The word "Hooker" is on the face of the structure and that is enough. History will take care of the rest. If future generations should find that the fame of Joseph Hooker was waning, a tablet can be prepared any time to call attention to "Fighting Joe," but for a few hundred years at least the statue will tell the story. Who would think today of putting a descriptive tablet on the statue of Washington, Napoleon, Nelson, Grant or Dewey. The same light that makes those names luminous will keep the shadows from gathering about the name of Hooker. The much discussed tablet is no more necessary than any succeeding one would be.

The manner in which a Republican Legislature stood by Governor Bates last week in the license fee matter is a proper subject of comment and reflection. Governor Bates very properly asked that in common fairness with this present administration the fact be made plain that (1) The present expense is not new but has merely been shifted on to the state by the cities and towns which have always paid it heretofore. (2) The act which puts this burden onto the State was passed in 1900 and although it has just taken effect has never been criticized or opposed in the interim.

The discussion upon the matter was very full and occupied two days in the House. It was participated in by the leaders and at the close only twenty-three republicans stood by the Governor while every democratic vote was cast against him. The comment was freely made afterwards that if Governor Crane had made exactly the same proposal during his administration it would have become a law.

Representative Walker of Brookline hit the nail somewhere near the head when he said that it might be well for the State to look round and see if the expenses could not be decreased rather than to look for more money. He hit the iron again when he said that the Committee on Ways and Means had cut down the estimates $125,000 without destroying the efficacy of the administration.

The Liquor Committee gave leave to withdraw on the petition for legislation to prevent minors from loitering around places where intoxicating liquor is sold. It would have been more in conformity with sober public opinion to have given the minors leave to withdraw, but perhaps that is not the sort of public opinion that the Committee is asking. The "leave to withdraw" prerogative seems to have taken possession of the committee to a very considerable extent. Perhaps the same privilege will be extended to some members of the Committee next Fall.

Senator Nye has introduced a resolve appropriating $3,000 to defray the expense of a rifle team to participate in the competition for the National, and other trophies. The Senator had better send the team to the far East where it can likely do all the practicing it needs in the near future. It was quite suggestive the other day that the only democrats in the House who voted to postpone, until the day following, the debate on the Liquor Fee Bill was "Honest John" Quinn of Boston and "Honest Charles" Giddings of Great Barrington.

The claim of Representative Hayes that nobody was more loyal to Governor Bates than he was, certainly was a challenge of the devotion of twenty-three members who stood by the Governor in the License Fee debate.

The Agricultural Committee is about to declare the Gypsy Moth a public nuisance. The public declared that sometime ago and a good many have made the same declaration regarding the numerous gypsy moth bills which have come to the State House for, lo, these many years.

THE PLAYHOUSE.

Poverty, which comes to the Hub Theatre next week is one of the most beautiful endings in the list of contemporary American dramas. This beautiful picture is made intense and soul stirring by Mr. Mullaney's acting, and is one that is not soon forgotten. For two or three minutes not a word is spoken the climax depending for its success entirely upon the delicacy of the acting. The scene is also a very pretty one, the different effects and lights calling for especial mention.

Colonial Theatre—At the Colonial Theatre in Boston, beginning Monday, March 22, Klaw & Erlanger will present the greatest musical production they have ever made—their colossal London Drury Lane spectacle "Mother Goose" which has held the stage at the New Amsterdam Theatre in New York for several months. "Mother Goose" is staged in three acts and fourteen scenes. Four hundred people take part in the performance and during its presentation nearly 2,000 different costumes are worn. The scenery was painted by the greatest artists in London and New York, and the costuming represents the most artistic work of Comelli of London, the most famous costume designer in the world, and P. Richard Anderson of New York, the leader in this art in this country. The mechanical and lighting effects are novel and in full keeping with the generally elaborate character of the entire production. There are two great ballets and a wonderfully beautiful transformation in "Mother Goose." These are shown at the ends of the acts. The ballet at the finale of the first act is called "L'Art Nouveau," and over 350 people appear in this feature. The great ballet "Heartcase" at the end of the second act is preceded by a minor ballet called "The Land of Frost and Ice," a remarkably beautiful scene composed of frosted bead work. This melts into "The Land of Heartcase," showing nearly 400 people in most gorgeous costumes in every hue of the paucity. The last incident is the display of the great transformation, "Contentment." The company presenting "Mother Goose" will be the largest ever sent on tour. The company with the stage artisans, will exceed 400 people in number.

IS IT SAFE TO STAY AWAY FROM CHURCH?—SOME UP-TO-DATE TESTIMONY.

To the Editor of The Graphic: Last Sunday the Rev. Dr. Adamson of Philadelphia read to his congregation, made up largely of students, a series of letters which he had received from heads of Colleges and others in reply to his inquiry "What results follow the neglect of Church going?" These letters, although they relate to observations among students, embody several principles and show the baleful consequences of neglecting public worship. The summing up of the testimony is: "That those who neglect the frequent expression of their spiritual feelings will eventually lose the power that stimulates religious emotion."

Among those who unite in this testimony are Pres. Eliot, Pres. Wilson, Provost Harrison, Dr. Kean and others who represent a great variety of religious beliefs.

Dr. Eliot says that neglect of religion results in two great losses. First the opportunity for reflection. Second, the lowering of aspirations and ideals.

Dr. Harrison declares that habitual neglect requires one to stifle his conscience and then the result often is the growth of aversion.

Dr. Wilson thinks that such neglect draws one away from the best regulative influences of life.

Dr. Henderson implies that such neglect leads to the dwarfing of one's nature.

Dr. Guilford brings out the fact that neglect of church going leads to neglect of all religion, and then comes the weakening of the moral character.

There is remarkable unanimity in these opinions of men who represent some of the highest scholarship of our day. If men who have had such broad opportunities for knowing what the results of the neglect of church going are, agree in urging men, young and old, to go regularly somewhere to church there is very little force left in the two questions often asked by those who stay away, viz: "What good will I gain by going?" "What harm will come to me if I stay away?" Men who have given much thought to the subject say that, inasmuch as you have a religious nature you ought to be improving it, and that if you fail to improve it you are doing yourself harm.

Of course there are still other arguments in favor of church going, but it may startle some of the men in Newton who rarely if ever are found in church to know what the most advanced scholarship of the day has to say about such neglect.

The street railway situation in this city which was set forth before the Railroad Commission last Wednesday
is one which demands thoughtful consideration from every citizen. No one has the right to expect that business men will continue an investment
which is bringing them a constant loss and from which the public receive all the advantages. On the other hand the public has the right to demand that it shall be suitably served by all public service corporations. The present point is unique,
as all the law and rulings heretofore
made bear on the point that the corporation shall not make an undue profit from its monopoly, and the fact that such a corporation might do its work at a loss has not been contemplated.

It is fair to assume that the figures
which have been furnished the public as to the financial condition of the Newton & Boston Co. are correct.
They are given under oath of the officers of the Company, who are honorable business men, and the Company's books have also been examined by the railroad commission. These figures show that there is an actual loss of nearly a cent a head on every person carried on a transfer check,
and that the transfer business of the line is over 50 per cent of its total. It will also be noted that the larger the business under these conditions, the greater the resulting deficit, so that the Company has no incentive to enlarge its facilities. Such conditions require radical treatment and either the free transfer privilege must be modified, or the service given the public must be lessened.

We do not believe the city will listen to any proposition to render less service than has been given for some years past. Indeed it is often hinted that a 15 minute schedule should be maintained instead of 20 minutes, as has been the case. The present 30 minute schedule, regardless of the unfavorable weather conditions, may be classified as altogether out of the question.

The matter therefore sifts down to the proposition that if the public demand a satisfactory service they should pay for it, and we do not anticipate any great objection to such a plan from thinking people.

The Company's plan will still allow transfer privileges from Newton to all the south side villages, and that part of the city will simply pay two fares for a ride to West Newton, Andover, Lower Falls or Waltham. It has been suggested that there is no valid reason why the transfer privileges should not also be retained on the line running between Nonantum Square and Lower Falls and the Newton & Boston cars. This would practically allow a five cent ride to any point in the city and would only bar
the south side from a five cent fare to Waltham. This suggestion seems to be worthy of consideration as it protects the city in its previous agreements regarding free transfers, and would relieve the Company from the burden of transfers to Waltham.

Whatever relief, if relief is granted, is allowed by the railroad commission it would seem only just to the public that it be limited to a definite period say three years, in order that the future may not be unduly burdened.

The attempts of the Railroad Company to postpone the important work of abolishing the grade crossings on the south side of this city on the ground that the East Boston matter is more important, and that they are unable to do both at the same time,
should be stoutly resisted by the city authorities. Newton has no quarrel with East Boston and does not attempt to stand in the way of public improvements in other places, but the necessity for the work in this city is so apparent the details have been agreed upon, and there is no valid reason why both projects should not go on together. The railroad company found no difficulty in carrying on the work of abolishing the grades on the main line in Newton at a cost of over two millions and it is strange that they now balk at a total expenditure of considerable less than that sum for the East Boston and Newton plans combined. Newton should insist that its rights are not passed over at the present as otherwise it would be a very long time before so favorable

an opportunity again arises.

We must again protest against the undue and sensational publicity which has been given by the Boston dailies to the police affairs of this city. A perfectly legitimate order for an examination of expressmen's records is magnified into the bugbear that the name of every person who has received liquor
through the express offices is to be publicly placarded about the city. The public may rest assured that Mayor Weed knows exactly what he is doing and that the rights of private citizens will not be interfered with by the police. The municipal authorities have not heretofore made any regular examination of the books of holders of wagon licenses but it is evident that the present administration does not intend to neglect any opportunities to obtain information regarding the liquor traffic in this city.

The prospects for the selection of Captain Weeks for the seat in Congress now held by Congressman
Powers are brightening every day.
A strong organization is constantly at work and leading citizens from all parts of the district are uniting under his standard.

Mr. William M. Flanders will probably have no opposition as a delegate to the national Republican convention at Chicago, from the twelfth district. Mr. Flanders deserves all the honors the party can give for his faithful and valuable services in its interests.

ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the Newton Highlands Improvement Association held in the Hyde school hall last Monday evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President, Thoms White; vice president, W. H. Mansfield; secretary, Sanford E. Thompson; treasurer,
A. H. Elder; executive committee, Frank
R. Moore, Robert Levi, Seward W.
Jones, Mrs. E. Moulton, Mrs. C. R.
O'Donald.

A large body of Newton Highland residents gathered to discuss the vital questions of the purchase of land adjoining the Hyde school and the recent action of the Newton and Boston St. Ry. in changing from 20 minute to 30 minute time and striving to abolish transfers.

The discussion on the Street Railway question was opened by President
White who called upon Alderman
Webster for remarks. The injustice of the railway corporation to the City of Newton was presented by Messrs
Jones, Warren, Allen, King and others. The following resolution on motion of Mr. Walter Allen was passed unanimously: "It is the opinion of the Newton Highlands Improvement Association that the transfers should be maintained."

A committee consisting of Thomas White, Geo. B. King, J. Weston Allen, A. S. Hutchinson and A. H.
Elder was appointed to represent them at the hearing before the R. R.
Commissioners and others were urged to be present.

During the debate a telephone message was received from Alderman Mellen stating that the measure for the purchase of land adjoining the Hyde school had passed the Finance Committee of the Aldermen unanimously.

Mr. Jones, chairman of the executive committee reported that the Library Trustees were desirous of considering the establishment of a branch library in Newton Highlands and a committee of three consisting of Walter Allen, C. D. Miller and E. W.
Warren was appointed to investigate the matter.

A pleasing musical program was presented by Mrs. Tewksbury, Mrs.
Shumway and Messrs Johnson and Davis.

DEATH OF GEORGE H. BRAMAN.

Mr. George H. Braman of Ivanhoe street died yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock at his residence on Ivanhoe street after a brief illness with pneumonia. Mr. Braman was well known in the dry goods commission business in Boston with which he has been identified for over fifty years. He was born in Boston, May 5, 1829 and was educated in the Chauncey Hall and English High schools. In 1846 he entered the counting room of Waterston
Pray & Co., a leading dry goods commission firm and later was employed by J. C. Howe & Co. in the same business. In 1864 he established himself in business which continued until he retired in 1898. For thirty years Mr. Braman resided in one house in Charlestown and has made his home in this city since 1890.

He is survived by three daughters,
Mrs. Nellie H. Braman of Brookline,
and Mrs. William R. Dewey and Miss Caroline R. Braman of Newton.
Funeral services will be held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon at 1:45 p. m. Rev. Dr. Davis of the Eliot church, with which Mr.
Braman was connected will officiate.

THE COLOMBIANS.

They Are Hospitable People and Like Good Living.

The Colombians are a hospitable people and receive strangers cordially. It is customary for a stranger to send cards to those whose acquaintance he desires, and etiquette demands that the recipients of the cards call within a few days.

The dining tables of the rich are spread with fine linen and set with handsome cut glass and china. Among their beverages, in addition to wines,
are celanda, barley water; orchida,
which contains almond juice and sugar; agrass, the juice of unripe grapes;
miranada, orangeade and a preparation of chocolate thick as gruel. A dish for invalids is soup de pain. A raw egg is broken upon a slice of toast, and a beef broth is poured over it. A breakfast often consists of several courses—
for instance, fruit, poached eggs, with steamed tomatoes and rice; fish, chops
fried in eggs and herbs and a tortilla
con queso, brain omelet, sweet potatoes or other vegetable and coffee. Saff-ron is a favorite flavoring for soup.
Chicken or game pies contain a variety of vegetables, hard boiled eggs and other ingredients. A common dish
among the poor is a stew called sin coche. Another standby is rice and red beans. Rice cooked in lard, with a little tassaio (dried beef) for a relish, is a delight among the lower classes. The desh of the iguana, a species of land lizard, is regarded as a delicacy and is said to resemble chicken. The natives slit the sides of living female iguanas and take from their struts of eggs as large as plums. They hang these eggs in the sun and dry them for future consumption.

ACTING WITHOUT ORDERS.

General Grant's Tribute to General
Sheridan's Judgment.

Senator Hoar in his "Reminiscences"
says that at a dinner where General Grant and other distinguished men were present Commodore Alden remarked that there was nothing he disliked more than a subordinate who always obeyed orders. "What is that you are saying, commodore?" said President Grant across the table. The commodore repeated what he had said.
"There is a good deal of truth in what you say," said General Grant. "One of the virtues of General Sheridan was that he knew when to act without orders. Just before the surrender of Lee, General Sheridan captured some dispatches, from which he learned that Lee had ordered his supplies to a certain place. I was on the other side of the river, where he could get no communication from me until the next morning. General Sheridan pushed on at once without orders, got to the place fifteen minutes before the enemy and captured the supplies. After the surrender was concluded the first thing
General Lee asked me for was rations for his men. I issued to them the same provisions which Sheridan had captured. Now, if Sheridan, as most men would have done, had waited for orders from me Lee would have got off." Senator Hoar adds this comment: "I hatened with wonder at the generous modesty which, before that brilliant company, could remove one of the brightest laurels from his brow and place it on the brow of Sheridan."

Stars by Daylight.

It is worthy of remark that but for the brightness of the sky the stars could be seen in daylight. Even as matters stand, some of the brighter of them have been seen after sunrise by explorers on high mountains, where the air is very clear and the sky dark blue. If we could go above the atmosphere the sky would appear perfectly black, and stars would be visible right close up to the sun. Astronomers observe bright stars in daytime by using long focus telescopes, the dark tubes
of which cut off the side light, and persons in the bottom of deep wells have noticed stars passing overhead, the side light being reduced by the great depths of the wells.—T. J. J. See in Atlantic.

The Modesty of Brahms.

At an interesting dinner party given by Joachim, at which were present also his friends, Professor Dorn of Naples
and Von Herzogenberg, the composer,
an amusingly characteristic scene occurred. Joachim in a few well chosen words was asking us not to lose the opportunity of drinking the health of the greatest composer, when before he could say the name Brahms banded
to his feet, glass in hand, and called out: "Quite right! Here's Mozart's health!" and walked round, clinking glasses with us all. His old hatred of personal eulogy was never more prettily expressed.—Leisure Hour.

Keeping Up Appearances.

Wife—There was a man around today selling big brass burglar alarm
bells to put on the front of the house,
so I ordered one.

Husband—What! You know we haven't anything worth stealing.
Wife—I know that, but it will make the neighbors think we have.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Little Or.

"It really," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "your little dinner last night was quite rehearse."

"Oh, dear!" her hostess groaned. "I just knew that new cook would make a botch of it some way!"—Chicago Record Herald.

The Essentials.

"Which would you rather marry, Ethel, brains or money?"

"Money, of course. I can get along without the luxuries, but I must have the necessities."—Brooklyn Life.

morals where one has failed from defects in intellect.—Mann.

Among Women.

The visiting committee of the Massachusetts Association for Promoting the Interests of the Adult Blind has recently sent to the Women's Clubs
of the state an appeal for cooperation.
With the appeal was sent to each club
president Helen Keller's booklet,
"Our Duties to the Blind." It is earnestly hoped that the Social Service departments of the clubs will undertake to find out the needs of the blind in their various communities
and discover the best means for helping them to become self supporting. Reports of ways and means employed may be sent to 3042 Washington street, Roxbury.

The next meeting of the Social Science Club will be next Wednesday
at 10 a. m. at the Hunnewell Club.
Subject, "Improvement in New England Farm Life."

The Ladies Home Circle will meet next Wednesday afternoon in the Unitarian church, West Newton.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild
held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the parlors of the Newtonville Church, Highland avenue. Although it stormed severely, a large audience was present to listen to Mr. Schuyler Matthews, the lecturer, who spoke most delightfully upon "Birds and Bird Notes." Mr. Matthews has for years made a close and enthusiastic study of birds and their music. He showed that the notes the birds sing make music, perfect in rhythm and harmony and related instances, where bird notes are used in the musical works of some of the great masters.
His lecture was illustrated with pictures of birds and he reproduced their different notes or songs upon the piano. The music for the afternoon was in charge of Miss Josephine Martin. Keats Lorenz, a little boy of ten or eleven years and pupil of Miss Martin, sang a group of bird songs
very charmingly.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club held its regular meeting in the Unitarian church last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lois Cate furnished the music for the day playing two selections on the piano in her usual artistic manner. The Education Committee, Mrs. Clifford, chairman, provided the speaker, Professor Henry Lawrence Southwick, Dean of the Emerson school of Oratory, who gave an address on Hamlet the Man of Will.
The next meeting will be March eleventh and will be a reciprocity meeting. Mrs. Henrietta Frost will speak on the Trees of New England.
This is to be an open meeting to which all are cordially invited. A cake and candy sale will follow the meeting.

Y. M. C. A.

The Sunday meetings for men are drawing large numbers to the Association rooms. Mr. Henry H. Kin-ahan will speak at 3:30. Mrs. Kin-ahan will sing.

The attendance at the rooms is increasing steadily. The membership committee reported an increase of 80
new members since November 1st.

The Third District of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. meets at the Baptist church at Watertown next Thursday at 10:15. The session will last all day. At noon a lunch will be served for 15 cents. The members of the Newton Woman's Auxiliary are invited to attend this interesting meeting.

Attention is called to two athletic events which will be of great interest to many. On March 5th there will be a dual meet between the Malden and Newton Associations in the Newton gymnasium. The events contested will be running, high jump, three broad jumps, shot put (12lbs), 20 yard dash, 600 yard run and one mile run.
Gidney, the crack jumper of the Malden Association who won the high jump at the B. A. A. meet has a record of over 6 feet and it is expected
he will complete.

WHY WINE FIRST TO HOST.

In America a More Formality, but in Italy a Real Necessity.

The wine was opened dextrously by the waiter, who before serving the guests poured a few drops into the host's glass.

"Why did this waiter give you a little wine before helping the rest of us?" asked a man or curious mind.

"Oh," said the host, "that's always done."

"I know it's always done. That does not answer my question, though. Here, waiter," the man persisted, "you tell me why when you open a bottle of wine you pour a few drops into the host's glass before serving the guests."

The waiter smiled and answered:

"It's a matter of form, sir; an old custom, a politeness. Its origin lies in the fact that after the removal of the cork there might be left in the neck of the bottle a little dust or a few specks of cork. The first drops poured out would in that event contain the dust or the cork, and thus the guest were he served first might get this refuse; hence the host is given the first drops."

"As a matter of fact, if you know how to open wine you have no difficulty in keeping the bottle's neck clean. The custom, therefore, is a formality in America. In Italy, though, it is a real necessity, for over there they pour a little oil in the necks of their bottles of native wine before corking on the ground that this makes the wine air tight. No doubt it does, but it also in some cases gives to the first glass from the bottle a decidedly oily flavor. Therefore the first glass the host gallantly takes."—Philadelphia Record.

HE WON THE AUDIENCE.

The Way Fred Douglass Got the Best of Captain Rynders.

The inexhaustible sense of humor in Frederick Douglass kept him clear of any sense of gloom, as was never better seen than on the once famous occasion when the notorious Isidore Rynders of New York, at the head of a mob, had interrupted an anti-slavery meeting, captured the platform, placed himself in the chair and bidden the meeting proceed. Douglass was speaking and, nothing loath, made his speech only keener and keener for the interference, weaving around the would be chairman's head a wreath of delicate sarcasm which carried the audience with it, while the duller wits of the burly despot could hardly follow him. Knowing only in a general way that he was being dissected, Rynders at last exclaimed, "What you abolitionists want to do is to cut all our throats!" "Oh, no," replied Douglass in his most dulcet tones; "we would only cut your hair." And, bending over the slung and frowzy head of the Bowersky tyrant, he gave a suggestive motion as of scissors to his thumb and forefinger with a professional politeness that instantly brought down the house, friend and foe, while Rynders quitted the chair in wrath and the meeting dissolved itself amid general laughter. It was a more cheerful conclusion perhaps than that stormier one—not unknown in reformatory conventions—with which Shakespeare so often ends his scenes, "Excellent lighting!"—Thomas Wentworth Higginson in Atlantic.

Which Is the Larger Income?

Here is an interesting problem in mathematics: Two clerks are engaged, one at a salary which begins at the rate of $100 a year, with a yearly rise of $20, and the other at a salary commencing at the same rate, but with a half yearly rise of $5. In each case payments are made half yearly. Which of them has the larger income?

Who is not tempted to say the former?

Yet the latter is the correct answer, for in the first year the first clerk receives $100, but the second clerk receives $50 and $55, which amounts to $105 in the year. The first clerk in the second year gets, to be sure, $120, but No. 2 gets $60 for the first half year and $65 for the second, or $125 in all.

Gin in England in the Old Days.

Before intoxicating liquor was made dear by taxes and its sale was regulated by licenses the use of it in England was astonishingly common. Not only were there in London 4,000 or 7,000 regular dramshops, but cheap gin was given by masters to their work people instead of wages, sold by barbers and tobacconists, hawked about the streets on barrows by men and women, openly exposed for sale on every market stall, forced on the malcontents and other purchasers at the chandler's shop, until, as one contemporary writer puts it, "one-half of the town seems set up to furnish poison to the other half."

In the Nursery.

"Mamma, why do hundredies object to children?"

"Mother—I'm sure I don't know. But go and see what baby is crying about and tell Johnny to stop throwing things at people in the street and make George and Kate cease fighting and tell Dick if he doesn't stop blowing that tin trumpet I'll take it away from him.—Tit-Bits.

Their Celebrations.

Hicks—Going to celebrate your wedding, are you?

Wicks—Yes.

Hicks—Well, I guess I'll celebrate my wouldn't wedding. It was just five years ago that that girl from Chicago said she wouldn't marry me.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

Properly Diagnosed.

Lushmann—I'm troubled with headaches in the morning. It may be on account of my eyes. Perhaps I need stronger glasses.

Dr. Shunde—No; I think you merely need weaker glasses and fewer at night.—Exchange.

THE ISLE OF NOBLES.

A Famous Historic Site, the Cradle of Saxon Liberty.

The Isle of Athelney, or the "Isle of nobles," as the name signifies, is one of the most famous of historic sites. A thousand years ago it was a low islet covered with willows and alders and surrounded by fens and overflowing marshes, altogether inaccessible except by boats. There King Alfred sought refuge with a swineherd, and there he lay concealed from the invading Danes for the space of a whole year. The resort of his chieftains to this place caused it to be known as the "Isle of nobles," which may be regarded as the cradle and stronghold of Saxon Liberty. After Alfred regained the possession of his throne he erected a Benedictine abbey on this spot and "endowed it with all the lands in the Isle of Athelney." The monastery has entirely disappeared, but its site is marked by a stone pillar erected in 1801 by the owner of Athelney. The pillar bears this inscription: "King Alfred the Great in the year of our Lord 879, having been defeated by the Danes, fled for refuge to the forest of Athelney, where he lay concealed from his enemies for the space of a whole year. He soon after regained possession of his throne, and in grateful remembrance of the protection he had received under the favor of heaven he erected a monastery on this spot and endowed it with all the lands contained in the Isle of Athelney. To perpetuate the memory of so remarkable an incident in the life of that illustrious prince this edifice was founded by John Slade, Esq., of Mansell, the proprietor of Athelney, A. D. 1801."—London News.

THE MAN WITH THE ADZ.

Outside a butcher shop twenty or thirty persons stood watching a man at work with an adz. He stood on a large oaken block, such as meat is chopped on, which he had taken from its legs and placed on the curb, sloping toward the street. The surface of the block had become scarred and roughened from use. With clean, accurate strokes of the adz the man soon made it as smooth as a mahogany table. It was the wonderful accuracy of his aim that made passersby stop to look at him. He paid no attention to them. A single false blow would have ruined the block. When the job was done, the man helped the butcher mount the block, collected $5 and went off to keep another appointment.

"It has taken me twenty-three years to learn to chop like that," he said to a reporter. "My charge is from $5 to $10, according to the size of the block. A block requires evening off in that way every three or four years. I have customers now that I had when I first began business, twenty-five years ago. In all that time I have spoiled only two blocks, and they were during the two years of my apprenticeship. The butchers can get their chopping blocks put in condition by sending them to the sawmill. But it is more expensive, and they can't spare them so long from the shops. There is enough work of this kind in New York to keep myself and half a dozen others busy."—New York Press.

Korean Men's Hats.

The quaintest feature of the picturesque costumes of the Korean men is their hats. They are mousetrap-like arrangements made from the hair of the wearer's ancestors. This priceless possession is handed down from father to eldest son, who reaches the goal of his ambition at the moment when the family hat is placed upon his head. Another grotesque form of Korean head-dress is the mourning hat that is worn in rural districts by the eldest son for three years after the death of either of his parents. This conical shaped affair of rushes or rice straw is as large as a bushel basket and extends to the shoulders.

The Value of Exercise.

The brain that never calls upon itself for work must become dull and stupid, and it is the same way with the muscles of the body. They are filled with blood vessels that should be up and doing. The blood has several purposes, and one is to carry away the waste fluids of the body. The lungs are a sort of refinery, and the blood is a distilling agent. If the blood becomes thick and unhealthy and sluggish the eyes grow dull, lips lose their redness, and the complexion is sallow and unlovely. It is an easy and simple matter to make exercise a habit.

Wart Cures.

Vinegar and cooking soda in solution are said to make a capital cure for warts. If the wart is kept moist with it for ten minutes several times a day it will disappear in the course of a week or so in ordinary cases.

Another cure is to touch frequently with acetic acid or nitric acid, but one must be careful not to irritate the surrounding skin by dropping either acid.

Why They Spoke.

"We had known each other slightly," said Miss Evvy Waite, "but never to speak to until one day while out skating I fell down quite near him, and—" "Ah, yes," replied Miss Peppery. "That broke the ice, of course."—Philadelphia Press.

Choosing a Minister.

Dean Everett used to say that parish committees had no more ability choosing a minister than a minister showed in buying a horse.—Boston Christian Register.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., February 27, 1904

A great calm has fallen upon Republican politicians since the death of Senator Hanna, and the soap-bubble character of the various "booms" for President, other than the present occupant of the White House, has been demonstrated. The President is making no special effort to pick out a manager for the coming campaign; a manager hardly seems to be needed. Everything is falling into place like clock-work. Mr. Dover, private secretary to Senator Hanna, takes the place made vacant by the resignation of Perry Heath, and for the present prominent Republicans will look after the larger interests of the party. It is now known that Senator Hanna had the most sincere friendship, and the highest regard for the President, and that he was not the man to carry a knife up his sleeve. There is no longer a Foraker factional fight in Ohio; if there were any aspirants in that state for Hanna's vacant seat they have generously declined to come forward, and all are willing that Congressman Dick should become the new Senator. He is a man of much force of character, who has seen all sides of life, from being the humble keeper of a feed store in the little city of Akron, O., to his present high and honorable position. In the lower house of Congress he will be succeeded by Mr. E. L. Lampson, who has been lieutenant governor of Ohio, and prominent in politics for the last twenty years. As the Buckeye state goes so goes the rest of the world! There is even Republican harmony in New York state, and the three great leaders, Gov. Odell, and Senators Platt and Dewey, are all agreed, and each is welcome to the confidence of the President. Senator Dewey is a candidate for reelection and there appears to be little opposition. Elsewhere in the United States the Republicans are confident, cheerful and united. Much regret is expressed over the news of the serious illness of Senator Quay, of Pa., at his retreat in Florida. But if the worst should prove true, his state is overwhelmingly Republican, and can be depended upon to vote solid for the Chicago nominee.

There has been considerable opposition in the House to the proposed large appropriation for the navy, Congressman Burton, Rep., of Cleveland, O., leading. But the bill has passed the House and will pass the Senate and will carry nearly one hundred millions of dollars. Congress is busy with the appropriation bills, and it is amusing to see how interested Senators are in the various items of the Agricultural appropriation bill. That good old farmer of Vermont, Senator Proctor, who cultivates one of the largest marble quarries in the country, has the bill in charge. It will carry between six and seven millions of dollars, every cent of which is for the benefit of those who till the soil, and are the backbone of the nation. The Senate is disposed to increase the appropriations for all sorts of experiments: to make divisions into bureaus with an increase of salaries all round; and it has ordered an investigation of the effects of cold storage upon animal flesh and other food products. There are those who believe that much sickness is caused by partaking of meats which have been kept for a long time in cold storage, thawed, frozen and refrozen, as the custom is in Washington. The Smoot investigation will soon begin, and witnesses who stand high in the Mormon church have been summoned to Washington, to tell what they know about the Apostle, who is now a Senator. Mr. Reed Smoot is a young man, in appearance more like a traveling man for a ready-made clothing house than a Senator. He is tall, thin, not quite at ease, pleasant, but evidently out of place in his present position. He takes a modest part in the proceedings of the Senate and is an attentive listener to all the debates.

There are several perplexing complications in the Panama canal job. It has been a great task to select competent and practical engineers who will be willing to work on the spot instead of at arm's length in comfortable offices in Washington. The President is determined there shall be no perfunctory work on this great enterprise. Those selected give great satisfaction to both parties, and Democrats, as well as Republicans, are thanking the President for his independence, wisdom and sagacity. Before the money can be paid to Panama there will have to be Congressional action, since the Spooner act requires that the money shall be paid to the "Republic of Columbia." The suit which Columbia has begun against the French canal company, must cause delay, in the matter of obtaining a clear title to the property. It is expected that one of the first contracts given out by the canal commissioners will be for machinery to the amount of fifty millions of dollars. This ought to keep a very large number of men employed in the shops for a long time, and with plenty of work there will be prosperity and contentment.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burham are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son. Mrs. Burham, before her marriage was Miss Gallichan of Rockland street.

—The 8 o'clock Club observed Ladies' Night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Bacon on Hyde avenue last Wednesday evening. Dr. John Baker gave an interesting paper on "Corea and the Far East," and the rest of the program consisted of piano solos by Prof. L. E. Stanton, vocal solos by Dr. H. C. Spencer and recitations by Mr. H. M. Greenough and Mr. A. R. Bailey.

—A pretty leap year party was given at the Hunnewell Club last Saturday evening under the direction of several young ladies. About 50 couples were present and dancing was enjoyed from 7:30 to 11:30, music Poole's orchestra. The patrons were Messrs F. H. Stone and A. W. Huff of Newton and Mr. C. F. Piper of Watertown. The ushers were the Misses Lucy S. Negus, Helen M. Jones, Eva M. Sanborn, Freda L. Stone, Rebecca B. Page, Isabelle Clark, Ethel Sedgwick, Mabel Bailey and B. Vera Howard. There were many unique features appropriate for leap year and the party proved to be a most enjoyable occasion.

Letter to Samuel W French, Newtonville.

Dear Sir: "It costs as much to put on poor paint as good"—a common saying and true—it costs much more to put on poor paint; more gallons. Poor paint is paint and bytes of paint and sand or paint and lime or paint and chalk or paint and benzine or paint and water; these are the usual cheats; there are others.

It takes more gallons of paint—and a cheat than of honest paint; and the cost for the labor of painting is as much a gallon—one gallon costs as much as another, for labor.

This is the way to reckon your costs of this year; but how about next year?

Paint Devore, and next year costs nothing; year after next the same for several years.

Paint anything else, and your costs recur according to what you paint with. Some of the mixtures wear one year; some two; some three.

It costs twice, three times, four times, five times, as much to paint with a cheat as to paint with Devore.

Yours truly

BOSTON AUTO SHOW.

There is every reason to believe that during the week of the Boston Automobile show, and auto boat exhibit to be held in Symphony and Horticultural Halls on Monday, March 14, there will be more or less record work attempted by the numerous cars exhibited at both shows. The majority of the out of town exhibitors who have heard so much about the Commonwealth Avenue hill climbing record have determined that when they leave Boston they will carry with them what is considered as the Blue ribbon record of Boston and vicinity, namely the honor of having climbed that hill in the least time. So far as can be learned there will really be a hill climbing contest at the hill each afternoon of the exhibit. The committee having charge of the exhibit has arranged for the holding of a smoker on Tuesday evening in Potter Hall, commencing at 11 o'clock and will continue for several hours. Mr. Thomas who is now bound for the Boston Show is bringing with him from England the so-called Pullman car. This has a limousine body and interior arrangements is fitted up in Pullman car style, hence its name. Another car of interest will be that with which Mr. Charles J. Glidden toured the Arctic circle last season and with which he expects to tour the world, starting in the near future.

New England Conservatory.

The annual performance of the Opera school of the New England Conservatory, of which Miss Adah Campbell Hussey of the Eliot Church choir and Miss Alice Mabel Stanway of the Channing church choir, are prominent members, will be given at the Boston Theatre next Thursday afternoon at two o'clock.

Correspondence.

The following letter is published at the request of Mr. Carter:

Raleigh, N. C. Feby, 1, 1904.
Horatio Carter, Esq., Newtonville, Mass.

Dear Sir: Yours of the 26th was on my desk on my return from a lecture trip in Maryland. The men who wore the Blue understand us who wore the gray better than the men who stayed at home and who now think that they can settle the negro problem for us while in fact it is the Southern white man and the negro who have the matter to settle. And the Southern white man is going to give the negro all the chance he needs to make something of his life. Here in Raleigh four fifths of our skilled mechanics of all sorts are negroes, and whites and blacks work together without a jar. In fact we rely on the negro for almost all kinds of help, and the only problem here is how to make him a better man and to keep him from going away. We have here a Medical College for the negroes, and I lectured there two winters, and the leading physicians and surgeons of the city are on the Faculty, and some good men have been turned out and have made a large practice among their own people. We have negro lawyers and they are treated well by court and bar. When the constitutional amendment restricting the negro vote was before the people the educated negroes voted for it, and the leading white Republicans who were not office seekers did the same. Some negroes vote under the grandfather clause for North Carolina was the only state in the country where negroes formerly voted up to 1835. The Southern people sternly avenge crimes against women and they hang the beast who commits them, while in the North they mob the negroes for wanting to go to work there. In fact the Negro has a better opportunity to elevate himself and to acquire property in the South than in the North. There is a good deal said North about our Jim Crow cars as they are called, but the cars are just the same as other cars on the train, and no white man is allowed in them any more than a negro in the ladies car, and it is really an advantage to the negro. I held a Farmers Institute for the negro farmers in one of our counties some time ago, and found that in that county they owned over 16000 acres of land in small places and are doing well, and the same is true of other counties. In fact if the politicians would let the whole matter alone the negro question would soon settle itself. We draw the line in social matters and we do not Mr. and Miss them, but we treat them kindly and out of our poverty have been giving them a due share of the school fund though they pay but little of the tax. Right near my house is a negro town outside the corporate limits. There are about 2000 of them. They have three neat churches, a large modern school house built and supported by the people of the state, and a large private school. They have their own stores and attend strictly to their own business and I have never heard of a policeman being called there. The men are mainly hackmen and own their teams and the women are washwomen. They own their homes and are thrifty and industrious and are getting to care very little about politics. I do not think there is a renter in the town. I have written so much about the negro because the Northern people sadly misunderstand the conditions here and the political papers make capital by misrepresenting us. Even Carl Schurz in a recent article in McClures argues that the Southern people want to reduce the negro to semi slavery when there is no such tendency in the South except with a few like Gov. Vardaman of Miss. who wants to deprive them of the school fund except what they pay. But this notion will never prevail in the South. We know that there have been great errors made in the education of the negro by benevolent people North who imagine that a negro is merely a white man with a black skin, while he is fundamentally different. Teaching negroes Latin and Greek and all that sort of thing is a cruelty to the negro. He is a child race and needs elementary training and to be taught to use his hands. Booker Washington is doing a good work as is also Hampton but they can do but little compared with what every plantation in the South did before the war in training mechanics. The younger class of negroes that have grown up in freedom have lost the intimate association with the white race that the older ones had and they have sadly degenerated as a race, though of course there are thousands of honorable exceptions, and these exceptions realize as well as the whites that something must be done to control the evil element of their race. If the negro could be eliminated entirely from politics and left to the white people of the South there would soon be no negro problem. Pardon this long essay. I felt like saying these things to one whom I believe will understand them.

I have had some correspondence with Mr. Stone of Georgia, and you will find all over the South men who are earnestly striving for the elevation of Southern Agriculture. I am vain enough to believe that I have had no small influence for good, and the remainder of my life as for many years past will be devoted to this purpose.

With best wishes for agriculture North and South I am

Yours truly,

W. F. Massey.

"Lullabies of Many Nations."

In Channing church parlors last Friday evening, under the auspices of the Entertainment Club, the play of Ciderella, which was given on Saturday February 20th, was repeated. It was marked with the same careful attention to detail and was a creditable production. The last half of the program was the presentation of the "Lullabies of many Nations" by young ladies dressed in the national costumes. Miss Alice Mabel Stanway sang the various lullabies and the following took the character parts: Puritan, Miss Edith Fisher; American, Miss Eleanor Boyd; French, Miss Olive Boyd; German, Miss Nathalie Shirley; Scotch, Miss Carolyn Clark; Italian, Miss Harriett Hilton; Swedish, Miss Esther Wing; Russian, Miss Marion Stone; Japanese, Miss Laura Cook; Indian, Miss Helen Whitton; Bohemian, Miss Emily Wellington; Spanish, Miss Marion Stimpson; Negro, Miss Olive Kendall. The Goodnight Song was sung by Miss Dorothy Emmons and the entertainment closed with a tableau of all nations, Miss Alice Webber being the additional figure and representing the Goddess of Liberty. The success of the affair was largely due to the efforts of Mrs. A. W. B. Huff and Miss Carrie Brown who were in charge.

Financial.

The week has brought irregular markets, with the general tendency rather downward. The war situation seems to be the dominant factor, and uncertainty as to the exact state of affairs in the East, with respect to possible international complications, has caused some nervousness and timidity in the investment world. The European markets have been almost panicky, and much of the depression there has been communicated here. There has been considerable selling of American bonds held on the continent, with the result that our bond market has become almost glutted. There has also been some foreign liquidation of American stocks.

Apart from the return of American securities held abroad, the domestic situation is considered sound. It is believed that the liquidation which took place during 1903 was very thorough, and that the recent selling has been principally by professional traders. There has been little selling for investment account, but on the other hand there has also been little buying. The market is apparently for the moment in the hands of professionals, and as trading sentiment is chiefly bearish, prices have been weak, touching the lowest of the year. It is believed, however, that the short interest is every day becoming larger. —Curtis & Sederquist.

Literary Notes.

"Of all the wonders of the world, the progress of Japan is the most wonderful." So wrote Darwin to Professor Morse some years ago. He referred more particularly to the progress of Japan in scientific knowledge. Her high standing in the world of art has long since been acknowledged, and her military prowess seems now about to be demonstrated. Japanese literature, however, has so long remained a sealed book to Western minds that it will come as a surprise to most people to learn that the Japan of today has a writer of fiction whose popularity is so great that the sales of his first novel have reached six figures in the space of three years. Messrs. Herbert B. Turner & Co. of Boston announce that they have secured the rights of this novel, and that the have on the press a translation which will be published at an early date. Its title is "Nami-ko," the name borne by the heroine.

The Blunderers

Entertainment Club Will Give Performances Next Wednesday Evening.

Just how many misunderstandings, not one of them with a serious side, are brought about because of "The Blunderers" in the play of that name to be given in Channing church parlors, Wednesday evening, of next week, one can never tell until he or she has seen the play. Then, as a matter of fact, it will be well-nigh impossible for there seems to be a new one every minute.

It is all because Mr. and Mrs. Simon Brown have had dealings with instalment houses and find themselves at the eleventh hour unable to meet the demands of the "easy terms" men. If Mrs. Brown had taken her husband into her confidence if Mr. Brown had entrusted his secrets to his wife; if rascally burglars had kept out of the neighborhood, and if a hundred and one things had not happened, then there would never have been any play. But all these things did happen and the result was a tangle that only a skillful author could straighten out.

These innocent mistakes made by "The Blunderers" are each one funnier than the other and there is enough "strenuousness" in every scene to satisfy that well known and highly esteemed patron of a famous nerve tonic. Of course, everything comes out all right, but one can form no idea of the ending until it is sprung at the last minute.

As a curtain raiser, "Holly Tree Inn," an adaptation of Dickens' charming story by L. D. G. Bentley, will be presented.

The cast for "The Blunderers" is as follows:

Simon Brown	Harold Dudley	Percy Wright
Jackman	Frederick	Frederick
Marguerite Sullivan	Mrs. R. E. Mandell
Lacy Brown	Miss Helen A. Mead
Phyllis Lee	Fay Crowell Wright
Chess W. Flint	Levett Bentley

STREET RAILWAY DEBATE.

Alderman Webster presented an order instructing the City Solicitor to appear before the railroad commission and oppose the abolition of free transfers on street railways within the limits of the city of Newton.

Alderman Bowen. Can the board give him that right?

President Saltonstall. Mr. Slocum is detained at home by the illness of a member of his family. The board can instruct him if it pleases.

Alderman Weston. At the first hearing on this matter the mayor and the City Solicitor were present and stated the city's understanding of the agreements as to free transfers. The city in its corporate capacity has no interest in this matter and it is inexpedient to pass this order.

Alderman Bishop. Early in the nineties certain agreements were made by the various street railway companies and the city. A question has arisen as to the value of these rights. If the City Solicitor should oppose the street railway petition before the railroad commission, he might technically waive the rights of the city under those agreements.

Alderman Webster. The City Solicitor stated to the commission that he neither favored nor opposed the petition. Newton has a larger interest in this matter than any other locality, yet Needham and Waltham were both represented in opposition, while Newton had no one. Ward 5 is vitally interested in this matter as it effects the working people and the granting of the street railway petition would make a serious difference in their expenses in proportion to income. A road that does not give good service is absolutely useless and without good service free transfers are valueless. I have consulted an attorney who advises me that the city is not compromised by opposing this petition before the commission, and it is possible that if nothing is done, it could be claimed that the city had given up its rights. It is possible that this road has been losing money. It has sold power to other lines at a loss, it has loaned their men, it has painted their cars. There are stockholders who are losing money, but who are the directors and making money from other lines. The Boston Suburban Electric Company owns the street railways of Newton, and while it is difficult to obtain facts, on good authority it is stated that the Newton and Boston stock brought 100, or one share of preferred and one share of common stock, and that the stockholders of the Boston Suburban have never received less than $4 per share dividend. The average cost per passenger is 3 1-5 cents. A five cent fare would add $18000 and still leave them behind. Citizens are asked to pay $45000. The abolition of transfers would wipe out all loans and yield a handsome profit. The deficit of $135000 was obtained in placing the road in first class condition and is in the floating debt. Other cities run their cars differently. Lynn, for instance has several lines of cars on the same street.

The loss of free transfers would be a public calamity to this city. Its effect would be to increase the dividends of $4 per share, and it is not unjust to ask the City Solicitor to oppose the petition.

Alderman Ellis. The board is asked to pass a snap judgment on matters which are before a thoroughly competent tribunal. I would be sorry to give up the free transfer system but do not like to approve this order. All the facts are before the commission and they are weighing the evidence and it is not competent for us to instruct the City Solicitor without all the facts before us.

Alderman White. The people of my district favor free transfers rather than more frequent service.

Alderman Palmer. The city has been properly represented before the commission and we should hesitate before taking action which will jeopardize our rights. I believe that the commission will see that the citizens have all the rights which belong to them and will act justly. Our citizens should not expect something for nothing.

Alderman Webster. Chairman Jackson laid great stress on the appearance of represented interests before them and it would give weight to the matter if the City Solicitor should appear for the city in opposition. The commission expects the city to take sides in this matter.

Alderman Johnson. I was an unfortunate stockholder in the early days of this company and instead of a dividend received an assessment of 5 per cent. The line was started by public spirited men and no road in the state was of more benefit to a community. High school pupils were formerly carried in barges. The circuit road did not accommodate them, and this street railway saved the city a second high school. The commission will see justice done in this matter.

Alderman White. The railroad has been of benefit to the south side and made us a united city. But the people of ward 5 cannot afford to give up free transfers.

Alderman Webster. Several people have favored less frequent service instead of abolition of free transfers, and that is almost the universal feeling of ward 5. The board should remember that if the petition is granted the other lines will also receive its benefits. No snap judgment is required as all the facts have been before the public for weeks.

Alderman Ellis. If the City Solicitor is instructed to oppose the matter the commission should rightfully expect that he was backed by the intelligent opinion of this board and if he is to go it should be so understood.

Alderman Cabot. The question seems to be in the hands of competent men and what the Solicitor might say would have little effect. The road might have better management and under different management should be made to pay. Ward 2 thinks there is something wrong, the facilities now are poor and some one else should run the road. It is not wise to instruct the City Solicitor on this question. If citizens desire to be represented they should employ counsel.

Alderman Ensign. I doubt whether it is wise to take action before the commission. Its decisions have usually given satisfaction and they will decide rightly. He suggested reference of petitions to the railroad commission.

President Saltonstall. This could be done but it expresses the same thing to a lesser degree, as the order now pending. If board took such action it indicated that it was in accord with the petitioners.

Alderman Webster. Are the railways in Newton in the hands of a trust?

Alderman Johnson. The commission does not recognize a trust. It only deals with the Newton and Boston Co.

Alderman Webster. The board represents the people and we jeopardize nothing when we say we wish to retain free transfers in Newton. It is a very proper action to take.

Alderman Weston. There are two sides to this question. We should not instruct the City Solicitor on matters on which we know but little, surely not enough to take decided action.

Alderman Webster. The alderman ought to have informed himself.

Alderman Weston. On matters which come properly before us. This matter is in the hands of a competent board.

Alderman Ensign. What is the effect of reference of this petition to commission?

President Saltonstall. If it is to be done at all action should be taken through the City Solicitor, or the city should remain neutral. The Solicitor has rendered an opinion to the mayor that if sides are taken, then there is grave danger of waiving our rights under the agreement. Mr. Slocum maintains that if we imply that the commission has full power, we may technically waive our rights. The citizens of ward 5 with the rest of the city have contract rights which will be protected.

The order was refused adoption. 3 yeas, Alderman Baker, Webster, and White: 14 nays, Aldermen Barber, Bishop, Bowen, Brown, Cabot, Ellis, Ensign, Hunt, Johnson, Palmer, Riley, Sweeney, Weston and Pres. Saltonstall. Alderman Day excused, 3 absent.

Alderman Bowen, Ensign, Hunt and Sweeney voting nay on the assurance that the citizens of ward 5 would be protected.

Alderman Webster then moved the reference of the petition to the railroad commission.

Alderman Weston. I hope the board will take no action.

Alderman Baker. I am surprised at the action of board. We are here for the interests of the people who will suffer if transfers are taken away. There is no harm in expressing our opinion on this matter.

Alderman Bishop. I favor free transfers and 20 minute service. The matter is before the commission on the question of expediency and there is no doubt but if stated facts are proved free transfers will be abolished. If petition is sent to commission without comment it would appear that the board was dodging the question.

Alderman Ensign. The rights of the city seem to be fully protected and the petitioners should be given leave to withdraw.

Alderman White. Is action by the commission final?

President Saltonstall. I am not informed as to an appeal to the courts but if there is a contract, the commission cannot take away the city's rights.

Alderman Webster. Is this board in favor of retaining the rights of the people?

Alderman Brown. The commission protects the rights of the people, and Ward 5 should let its sentiments be known to the commission directly. I believe the city's rights are being protected.

Alderman Webster. The commission wishes to hear from bodies of citizens and the action of this board may decide this important question.

Alderman Ellis. Provided the facts warrant, I am strongly in favor of free transfers. We do not know anything about it and that is reason enough for taking no action.

Alderman Webster. The Newton and Boston is the poor lean bird that does the picking for the rest. There is no information about the Boston Suburban before the commission.

Alderman Ellis was called to the chair by the President.

Alderman Saltonstall. The railroad commission is the best of all such commissions, and the chairman is known all over the state for his fairness and judicial capacity. He looks at this question in a judicial way, realizing that the citizens wish to retain the transfer system. The decision will be based on good and sufficient reasons. The evidence repeated here is the alderman's version of the matter. We have left the matter to the commission by a large vote and we should be consistent and not send this petition to the commission.

The president resumed the chair.

Alderman Ensign. The rights of this city seem to be amply protected.

Alderman Webster. I deny I am prejudiced and mean to be perfectly fair.

Reference to the commission of the petition was refused, by the same vote as that by which the order had been previously refused passage.

On motion of Alderman Ensign the petitioners were granted leave to withdraw.

The board at 9:55 p. m. adjourned.

One of the largest boat owners on the river has told us that he and they are heartily in favor of the rules of the Metropolitan Park police and realize the importance of their enforcement upon the future of boating and canoeing on the Charles. We are exceedingly glad to have this statement direct from the parties most concerned, for while we have felt all along that it was a matter of vital concern to those interested in letting boats and canoes, the reports, which clearly have been false and which seem to have been put into circulation by parties who were as culpable as those who were arrested were to be praised for taking the stand which we are authoritatively told they have taken. We assure them that the reputable portion of the press will be exceedingly glad to help them out. The president of the Canoe club also informs us that his club is heartily in accord with the police.—Waltham Free Press Tribune.

Congressman Powers Speech
On its Future.Eloquent Plea to Preserve Plan of Park Commission.

We take pleasure in presenting to our readers the speech delivered in Congress last week by the Hon. Samuel L. Powers, upon the development of the city of Washington. The speech is as follows:

Mr. Chairman, I trust I shall be pardoned if for a few moments I turn aside from the stormy sea of political contention and the vexed problems of political economy and immigration to consider the future growth of this great national city in which we are now assembled.

This morning I was much gratified to read the address delivered yesterday by the member of the Committee on Appropriations, which has in charge this bill, the gentleman from Nebraska, Mr. Burkett, concerning the growth and development of the city of Washington up to the present time. I regret that that gentleman did not see fit to make some prediction as to what was to be the growth and the development of this city in the years to come.

In 1898 public sentiment became more or less centralized on what was to be the future growth of the national capital. At the time of the centennial anniversary in December, 1900, which was held in this city and in this Capitol, the attention of the public was turned to the question of what was to be the growth of the city in the generations to come.

Public attention at that time was invited to the original plan of the city of Washington as agreed upon by General Washington in conference with Mr. Jefferson. Then it occurred to the American people that this city had been laid out upon a magnificent plan; that the Father of his Country must have contemplated the great growth of this nation; that the selection was most admirable; that he had called to his assistance the greatest of engineers and landscape gardeners of the time, Major L'Enfant, who made a study of all that was best of architecture in the Old World, and that this city had been laid out upon a plan which was grand, magnificent, and which presaged the wonderful growth which General Washington believed awaited this nation.

The result of that centennial celebration in 1900 was the appointment of the commission known as "the park commission," to take into consideration what could be done for the reclamation of the city of Washington, bringing it back as far as possible to the original line of the plan, and also with a view to developing this city along the line of its larger modern growth. At the time of the appointment of the commission the Institute of American Architects, which fortunately at this time was in session in the city of Washington, furnished to the service of the Government the most capable men who ever served upon any commission.

They selected Mr. Daniel H. Burnham, of Chicago, Ill., who had charge of the work at the time of the Columbian Exposition, which attracted universal attention from all parts of the world. They also selected Mr. Charles F. McKim, of New York, who stands, perhaps, at the head of the architects in America, whose work we are all proud of; and I recall in connection with Mr. McKim those two great architectural successes which he has completed in New England, one being the capitol of the State of Rhode Island and the other that magnificent library in the city of Boston, of which we are so justly proud. Besides these two was selected that eminent landscape gardener Mr. Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr., who resides in my Congressional district and who has achieved a reputation second to none as a landscape gardener in this country.

Let me say right here, in connection with Mr. Olmsted, that it is to him, perhaps more than to any other one, that we are indebted for that magnificent park system which surrounds the city of Boston today, and upon which the people of that district have expended nearly $20,000,000 for its development. Alongside of these three eminent artists in their particular professions was selected Mr. Augustus St. Gaudens, who stands as the best sculptor not only in the United States, but who compares favorably with any sculptor in the world.

Now, Mr. Chairman, there was a commission of the four best men in their respective fields of endeavor with a view of laying out the city of Washington for its future growth and development. Let it be said to the credit of those gentlemen that they served for an entire year; that they crossed the ocean and visited London, Paris, Venice, Vienna, Budapest, and Berlin, and gave to this Government a year of their best endeavor and toil and never accepted or would accept a single penny as compensation for their services.

I hold before me this report, which was published in 1902, as The Park System of the District of Columbia. When that report went out to the American Republic it was received with the greatest favor. It was received not only favorably by the rich, but also by the poor, and there was no American citizen, I care not where he lived, that was not proud of the very prospect that Washington was to become the finest city in the world.

I am perfectly well aware, Mr. Chairman, that the initiative toward this movement in selecting this park commission and in bringing out this report did not originate in this body, but originated in the body at the other end of the Capitol. I think it was a misfortune that the original resolution was not a joint resolution, and that this body did not have an opportunity to participate in its adoption. But I think it is but fair to say that even if we had participated in it we should have reached the same conclusion that was reached by the Senate committee. Now, the claim is made, and that is the reason why I bring this matter up at this present time, Mr. Chairman, the claim is made that we are departing from the plan as laid out by that commission.

It is claimed that we are locating buildings today or proposing to locate buildings in total disregard of that magnificent plan which to my mind has been indorsed and fully indorsed by the American people. I read this morning the proceedings which took place in another body with reference to the location of a public building, and every member of that body had his own opinion as to where the building should be located. One said it should be located here and another said it ought to be located there, and it is claimed that the building for the Department of Agriculture, which is to be located in the Mall, is to be located in absolute disregard of the lines as laid out by the park commission.

I have here before me an editorial which appeared but a few days ago in one of the leading papers of New England the Boston Herald, published in the city of Boston, which was entitled "A calamity to Washington," and I read this not simply because it is a strong argument against any variation from the plan as laid down by the commission, but I read it for the purpose of showing the intense popular interest which today is attracted to the development of the national capital of the country. This editorial goes on to say:

It is no exaggeration to characterize as a calamity to the national capital an action which, if persisted in, will make impossible the adequate realization of the noble plans for its improvement that have been enthusiastically approved by the best sense of the country. The Baltimore fire was a great calamity; but at least it will result in the rising of a more beautiful Baltimore from the ashes. The calamity to Washington is threatened not by any directly destructive agency. But an expenditure of two to four millions of dollars upon wrongly located buildings will for all time so mar its development as to represent a loss of possibilities whose value, were it estimable, would be found to represent an amount so prodigious that a great calamity like that at Baltimore would be a mere bagatelle in comparison with the injury inflicted upon the entire nation through the harm worked upon its capital city.

This calamity is threatened by the proposed modification of the site for the new building for the Department of Agriculture. When authorized by Congress it was generally supposed that the building would be located in conformity with the great central feature of the plans for improvement, the Mall, originally proposed by Major L'Enfant, in conformity with the enlightened views of Washington and Jefferson, and restored in the plans agreed upon by the recent commission of experts. This Mall, as contemplated, would be the grandest avenue in the world, running from the Capitol to the Washington Monument, with drives, promenades, groves and greenward included in a width of 1,600 feet—the width designed by L'Enfant himself.

The appropriation for the new Agricultural building was welcomed by the friends of the improvement as an important step toward realizing the project. It would be a great misfortune were it now to be made the means of inflicting lasting injury upon the plans. It appears that in determining the site for the building the authorities immediately in charge of the matter insist upon locating it in such a way as to result in reducing the width of the Mall by 200 feet. It doubtless seems a stroke of economy thus to secure an additional 100 feet for the new building. And although the architects of the edifice are themselves said to be strongly opposed to such action, the authorities in charge can hardly appreciate the lasting harm which it would do by eliminating from the Mall certain qualities of design dependent upon retaining its full width.

The dimensions originally planned for, both by the founders of Washington and by the present commission, were not arbitrarily fixed; they were the results of most painstaking and conscientious study, and hence they should not be hastily tampered with. It may generally be supposed that the four eminent experts comprising the commission were handsomely paid for their services. The contrary is the case. Urged to undertake the investigation, they consented as a patriotic duty, serving without compensation, and giving nearly a year of their time to a task whose professional demands represent personal sacrifices of many thousands of dollars in a public-spirited work. They certainly are entitled to the recognition of their objections to a modification of the project by a most careful and impartial consideration before definite action is taken.

The decisive voice in the matter lies with the President. Mr. Roosevelt is known to have taken a deep interest in the question, and to have expressed the desire that the great ideals thus established should be steadily realized in all work undertaken by the Government. Therefore it is to be hoped he will not give his consent to the proposed sacrifice of an essential quality of the great plan to the minor considerations involved in the site of a new department building. By wisely deciding this question, and by exerting his influence toward the creation of a responsible board for the careful determination of sites for public buildings and the execution of plans of improvement for the District of Columbia, President Roosevelt has the opportunity to make his mark upon the development of the nation's capital more strongly than any President since Washington.

I have not taken the time to read all that editorial, but I do propose to insert it in my remarks as a strong argument not only in support of the plan as adopted by the commission, but as a strong expression of what the popular sentiment is upon this subject. Now, I appreciate, Mr. Chairman, that the plan as laid out by this park commission is a most elaborate plan. I appreciate that it will require millions and tens of millions of dollars to carry it into effect. I also appreciate that it is a plan which is not to be carried to its fulfillment this year or next year or in this generation, but I believe that the American people do insist that Washington in the future shall be developed by no haphazard plan.

I believe that the American people do insist that some definite and permanent plan shall be agreed upon before we enter upon the construction of these large departmental and executive buildings which we have in view for construction in the near future. More than that, I believe that the American people insist that in building up and developing the city of Washington that the plan of the founder of the city—The Father of His Country—as laid out shall be adhered to. We have done much here in Washington to make this a great and a beautiful city. In 1848 we commenced the construction of the Washington Monument, which has been a great feat of engineering and which required nearly half a century to carry forward to its fulfillment.

We have entered upon a magnificent park system, and the Government today is the owner of nearly 2,000 acres of land on the west capable of splendid development as an outlying park. We have commenced the reclamation of the Potomac Flats, and that plan is going forward; but what I want to see is a plan substantially the same as the plan of the park commission, which shall construct a splendid Mall, whether it be 800 or 1,000 or 1,600 feet, running directly from the Capitol down to the river, and the river spanned by a splendid memorial to the great martyr to his country, Abraham Lincoln. If that plan can be carried out with the other features embodied in it, we shall satisfy the sense and the wishes of the people of this country.

Now, I want to say just a word, Mr. Chairman, along another line. I am aware that Members of this House will say this is a most extravagant plan. It contemplates possibly the expenditure of $100,000,000, possibly $200,000,000, for its development, and they say, "What good reason can we give to the country for the expenditure of so large a sum of money for the development of a single city, even though it be the national capital?" Now, let us look at this from the material point of view. Everybody agrees that the development of Washington along the lines of this plan as proposed by the commission would be in every sense most artistic; that we should be proud of it; but the reply is, "Are we justified in the expenditure of these large sums of money?"

In other words, is this House justified in committing Congress to a plan which during a generation, or two generations, may result in the expenditure of $100,000,000? I want to call your attention, Mr. Chairman, to the French people a thrifty people, a people that have as good a knowledge of human nature as any people upon the face of the globe. The French people have developed their splendid capital along lines largely identical with the lines laid out by the park commission, and what has been the effect?

Today travelers from all parts of the world who go to Europe visit the French capital. They spend their money at the French capital, and it is said on good authority that the American people every year carry across the Atlantic $100,000,000 and expend it in the cities of Europe. Now, who gets the benefit of that? You can put down, in the first place, that at least one-third, if not two-fifths, of that entire amount is expended at the gay French capital. The other goes to Venice, to Vienna, to those cities which have developed art in the highest degree.

You may go back a little further in history, to the Greek people, where art was born, and what have you to say as to the investment which the Greeks made more than two thousand years ago in their temples and in their works of art? For more than two thousand years the people of the earth have been traveling to Greece, which has been their Mecca, to view those wonderful works of art. If we were to develop Washington as it can be developed, we shall find that it would become a place not only for the resort of the American, but of people from all parts of the world.

We are still a young people. We have been passing through what may be called the "material age." We are reaching now an age of art. Our artists, our sculptors, our painters are today ranking among the best in the world. We are not always going to be simply a material people, gathering money, to be what are called "dollar getters;" we are coming to that point where we are going to gratify the finer senses of taste. We can make of Washington, with the talent and genius of the American people, the finest city in the world. We are already making her one of the finest cities in the world.

These splendid memorials which we are putting up—memorials which stand for the history of the country, memorials which represent the great soldier who fought for the glory and safety of his country, and memorials representing the great statesmen—are all to represent the history and the fame and the genius of the American people. For one, Mr. Chairman, I should exceedingly regret if we ignored the future development of this splendid city. I do not expect to remain much longer in these halls, but before I leave I want to put myself on record as favoring the development of the national capital in response to what I believe to be a strong popular demand.

The American people have never been stingy in the expenditure of money where they believe that the expenditure was justified. Only the other day a large majority of this House voted for an appropriation well on to $100,000,000 for the maintenance and upbuilding of the American Navy. I voted for that, as I assume the majority did, because I believe that the defense and protection of the country demanded it. I would to God that the time might come when the nations of Europe, today bristling with bayonets, would disband their armies and would allow their navies to go to the bottom of the sea, and that we might live together in universal peace, and that these hundreds of millions of dollars which today are being expended by the great nations of Europe and by the United States might be turned to the education and uplifting of the American people, the people of Europe, and the rest of the world; that these hundreds of millions of dollars might be devoted, or at least some part of it, to the development of the better senses, to the higher tastes of the human race.

I believe the time will come, and I believe it will come in this century, when we shall see universal peace and when we shall see a disbandment of the armaments of the world. It may not come in our day, but it will come in this century, and then when that does come the people of the world can enter upon an era of education and humanitarianism. But notwithstanding the great expenditures for the Navy, notwithstanding the great expenditures for the Army, notwithstanding the great expenditures for our rivers and harbors, there is no reason why we should not in this Congress agree upon some definite and permanent plan for the development of the national capital. This is not a party question. I have never yet made a political speech in this House, because I have realized that I could say nothing that would be likely to convince my friends on the other side of the House that they were wrong or satisfy them that I was right, and while I appreciate the necessity for the discussion of political questions, the discussion of economic questions, at the same time I wish that we might turn aside and join together, not as Democrats or Republicans, but as American citizens, in considering a question in which we all believe, in considering a proposition in which we are all united and interested, and that is the permanent development of this seat of government which you love, which I love, and which is the pride of every American citizen.

A TRIP TO AFRICA.

An unusually interesting stereopticon lecture is planned for Bray's large hall on Sunday evening next. The lecturer is Rev. E. E. Strong, D. D. The point made at the meeting of the aldermen last Monday night that the appearance of the City Solicitor before the railroad commission in opposition to the petition to abolish free transfers on the Newton and Boston line, would be a technical point against the city if it was necessary at a later date to insist upon its rights under the agreement of 1897 between the various companies and the city upon this matter, is rather too fine for the public to grasp, and there is considerable criticism of the board's action, or rather lack of action.

In the recent Supreme Court decision which has materially changed the aspect of the obligations upon street railway companies, we note that the court says: "The acceptance by the defendant of the locations granted by these towns did not make valid these conditions as to fares which the towns could not legally impose, nor did it make a contract as to fares between the corporation and the selectmen, or the town." The fact should be noted that the court emphasizes the failure to make a contract, and it is possible that the citizens of Newton have a stronger hold on the Company through its 1897 agreement, than under its conditions of location.

There is absolutely no doubt but what the public desires the retention of the transfer system so far as it relates to Newton. Opinion is divided as to the advisability of allowing free transfers to Needham and Waltham, but a five cent fare from the south side of the city to City Hall is certainly reasonable, and we believe should be retained.

Residents on the north side of the city who are near the Charles River should take immediate and active measures to clear their trees from the nests of the brown tail moth. We are informed that the Charles river valley is infested this spring with the nests of this pest and many have been noted on Charlesbank road and Hunnewell hill. The nests are easily recognized at this season, as they look like two or three dried leaves crumpled together. Pear trees are the favorites of the moth but they are also found on all other trees. If allowed to remain until the leaves come out the moths will make short work of the tender shoots. Carefully examine your trees and cut down and burn every nest.

MISS CHESTER DEAD.

Miss Mary Edna Chetser, daughter of Dwight Chester died at her home on Parker street Thursday of last week the result of burns recently received from a fire in the family residence. Miss Chester, who is a descendant in the direct line from Elder Brewster, was born in New York city April 14, 1866 and a few weeks later the family moved here. She attended the Newton schools and then went to Vassar College from which institution she graduated with the class of 1889. Having shown strong artistic tastes she studied under teachers in Boston, Venice and Paris and later spent considerable time in Italy, France and Spain. She returned last September from an 18 month's residence at the Alhambra, Granada, Spain. Deceased became a member of the First Baptist church in 1877 and has always showed a strong interest and determination to live a consistent Christian life.

The funeral which was largely attended was held from the family residence Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. E. D. Burr pastor of the Baptist church officiated and the interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Last Saturday in a conspicuous place in the chapel of the Newton Baptist Theological Institution a fitting memorial was erected to the late Rev. Dr. Alvah Hovey for 54 years a professor in and 31 years president of the institution. The tribute is a marble tablet about three feet square placed on the wall back of the pulpit. It is of tinted marble inscribed, "Alvah Hovey, D. D., the Second President," and then follows the record of his professional career. It takes its place beside similar tablets that have previously been placed in memory of Barnas Sears, S. T. D., L. L. D., and Ira Chase, S. T. D. The dedication took place at the chapel services at 9 o'clock when President Nathan E. Wood made an address giving a general review of Dr. Hovey's life and paid a touching tribute to his devotion to the institution. Prof. Frederick L. Andrews, professor of biblical interpretation spoke of Dr. Hovey's work in authorship, 22 of his works being in the institution library and stated that the former president had been connected with the theological school 58 years, the first four years as a student.

A FAMILY QUARREL.

Its Death Ending After the Post Shelley Had Interfered.

In his "Rossetti Papers" William Rossetti says that when Shelley was staying in the villa of the Gishornes a most droll incident occurred. It appears that his servants, Giuseppe and Annunziata, who were man and wife, quarreled, and Shelley, hearing Giuseppe abusing his wife very savagely and also ill using her, rushed upon him with a pistol, shouting: "I'll shoot you! I'll shoot you!" The startled fellow ran for his very life, Shelley after him, till the servant, coupling to a shrubbery of laurels, managed to slip under them. Shelley, in his eagerness, darting past him. The servant in a few minutes found it possible to dodge back into the house unperceived. Shelley, seeing him no more, at last went back to the house, where, to his unutterable surprise, he found Giuseppe and Annunziata sitting together in the most amicable manner, addressing each other as "carno" and "carissima." "But were you not quarrelling even now?" exclaimed the perplexed poet. "Quarrelling?" gasped Giuseppe in amazement. "No, signor, we never quarrelled." "But I have been running after you in order to shoot you." "No, signor, you never ran after me, for I have been sitting here for the last hour or more. You must have fancied all this." And Giuseppe and Annunziata, who had both been considerably frightened, continuing to assure him that they had had no quarrel, and Mary Shelley, whom they had let into the secret, saying the same, Shelley was at last utterly mystified and inclined himself to believe that he must have fancied it.

Excessive Energy.

Energy is a fine thing, but, like steam, it needs a little restraint and careful guiding. If the safety valve doesn't work there's likely to be a breakdown or a blow up now and then. The nervous, fidgety woman is a dreadful bore. She rattles up the atmosphere and makes everybody wish she would take a vacation and rest up like sixty. Some of those people who fly around the fastest do the least work, and the proper thing to acquire is balance. Work as hard as you want to, but let up when the moment for letting up arrives. There is a limit to human endurance, and when you go beyond the limit you never get back into the valve of strong endurance and fine vitality. It is the man or the woman who knows how to work and how to rest who gets things done all fine and shipshape and without tearing the roof off its feet. These remarks may be blunt, like a chisel, but they're as true as the fact that the Lord made little apples.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Odd Street Names.

In Clerkenwell, England, there is a street called Pickled Egg walk. It takes its name from Pickled Egg tavern, which formerly stood there and made a specialty of serving pickled eggs. An interesting London thoroughfare is Hanging Sword alley, which is mentioned in Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities." London has also Picklehering street. In Leicester is a street called the Holy Bones and another called Gallows Tree Gate. Hull has a street with the extraordinary name, the Land of Green Ginger. Corydon has a street named Pump Pail, and there some years ago lived Peter Pottle, a dealer in furniture. The most daring of farce writers might well have hesitated to invent a combination of name and address so improbable as that which really belonged to Peter Pottle of Pump Pail.

The Labor of a Watch.

The little balance wheel of a watch vibrates five times per second. Imagine that this wheel, instead of swinging back and forth like a pendulum, should roll on continuously over a given surface. Its circumference in a gentleman's watch of ordinary size is two and a quarter inches, and it makes a sweep in each direction of about three-fourths of its circumference. In other words, it would traverse in one second a distance measuring about eight and a half inches. According to this computation, the balance wheel of a watch would travel in a year over a distance of 3,577 miles in round numbers, and it would take the little wheel just six years eight months to circumnavigate the globe by way of the equator.

Breaking a Wishbone.

The divining rod is a feature in all early mythology, especially so among the Hindus. As the forked branch of a tree indicated in various parts of Europe, Asia and Africa where treasures were hidden or where water might be readily found. From the forked branch of a tree it was but a step to the forked clavicle of a bird, and this bone was soon invested with the power of securing the gratification of the wishes of those who in breaking it retained the forked part, for it was the fork that was possessed of mystic power.

Two of a Kind.

"Sir," said the shipping clerk, "I should like to attend my mother-in-law's funeral tomorrow."

"You have my sympathy, young man," replied the manager, with a sigh long drawn out. "I have been wanting to do likewise for thirteen years."—August Chronicle.

For All the Lives.

"Say," began the determined looking man, "I want a good revolver."

"Yes, sir," said the salesman, "a six shooter?"

"Why—er—you'd better make it a nine shooter. I want to use it on a cat next door."—Philadelphia Press.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. made its special day, February 29, the occasion of a pilgrimage to the shrine of the chief saint of Italy, that being the subject of a talk given by Mrs. H. H. Powers of Cambridge. With a guide so familiar with the places visited, the trip could not fail to be profitable to all who participated in it. After a picturesque description of Assisi and Perugia, the two Italian hill towns most closely associated with St. Francis, Mrs. Powers spoke of the life and work of this exemplary man, the founder of the Franciscan friars. Several beautiful legends connected with him were related. Over the spot where St. Francis was buried stands a church, the walls of which are decorated with paintings by Giotto and Cimabue, the subjects being scenes in the life of the saint. Copies of some of these pictures were shown at the close of the talk. The meeting was at the home of Mrs. A. F. Hayward. Music and refreshments added to the pleasure of the afternoon.

WIT BUBBLES IN TOASTS.

Some Humorous Sentiments Playfully Expressed at Banquets.

A publisher once gave the following: "Woman, the fairest work in all creation. The edition is large, and no man should be without a copy."

This is fairly seconded by a youth who, giving his distant sweetheart, said, "Delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence and treacle stand appalled."

Further, in regard to the fair sex, we have: "Woman, she needs no eulogy; she speaks for herself." "Woman, the bitter half of man."

In regard to matrimony some bachelor once gave, "Marriage, the gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted ground and returns to earth."

At the marriage of a deaf and dumb couple some wit wished them "un-speakable bliss."

At a supper given to a writer of comedies a wag said: "The writer's very good health. May he live to be as old as his jokes."

From a law critic: "The bench and the bar. If it were not for the bar there would be little use for the bench."

A celebrated statesman, while dining with a duchess on her eightieth birthday, in proposing her health said:

"May you live, my lady duchess, until you begin to grow ugly."

"I thank you, sir," she said, "and may you long continue your taste for antiquities."—London Tit-Bits.

Drinking and Smoking.

"The prevalent idea that drinking and smoking are companion vices is altogether wrong," said a physician who has made a special study of dipsomania. "I find, on the contrary, that the habitual drunkard is not abnormally addicted to the use of tobacco. He may use the weed as a lesser stimulant when not strongly under the influence of alcohol, but when the drink gets firmly entrenched in his system he cares nothing for tobacco, for then it has lost its force and its influence upon his nerves. Of course I mean in extreme cases."

"On the other hand, it is a rather curious fact that in the case of the moderate drinker, who also smokes, the cutting off of his supply of tobacco will increase his appetite for alcoholic beverages, and while at first the liquor will not affect him nearly so much as when he is smoking, in the end it will do him up. Consequently it is safe to assume that the man who always used liquor and tobacco in moderation will, if he gives up tobacco, take more strongly to liquor. In fact, this is no assumption; it has been demonstrated on numerous occasions."—Philadelphia Record.

His Education Wasn't Complete.

No more courteous judge ever presided at a trial than the venerable former justice of the New York court of common pleas, Charles P. Daly. The story is still told among our New York lawyers how on one occasion a young attorney, while trying a case, indulged in considerable vituperation of his opponent's witnesses, finally going so far as to answer the court very sharply when requested to modify his language.

Knowing that Judge Daly was somewhat of a stickler for the dignity of the judiciary, lawyers and court attendants gazed at the offending attorney in amazement.

There was a long interval of silence. Finally the judge leaned over the bench and said, with an ironical smile:

"My young friend, before you are as old as I am you will have learned that it is about as well to read Chesterfield as Blackstone."—Success.

Moslem Women's Freedom.

There has been a vast amount of pity wasted upon the Moslem woman. It may surprise even the woman suffragist to learn that the law of Mohammed confer upon women a greater degree of legal protection than any code of laws since the middle Roman law. Only the more recent liberties and protection granted to married women by the laws of divorce and the exclusive property rights now in force in the United States can be properly compared to those in Turkey. Under the Moslem laws the provision for securing to the wife the free and uncontrolled possession of her property is minutely stipulated in the marriage contract. A suitable sum is also arranged for her maintenance in accordance with her husband's rank.—Century.

Various Sources of Silk.

Silkworms are not the sole source of the production of silk. It is also obtained from several vegetable substances, but of an inferior and less durable description. Excellent colored silk is obtained from the prepared and finer fibers of the bamboo, which is much in demand for clothing in tropical countries from its lightness and porosity. Another form of silk is obtained from the pods of the silk cotton tree, of which there are several varieties in existence, the material obtained from them being known as vegetable silk.

West Her One Better.

"I never saw you in such a becoming hat, my dear. Did you get it ready made?"

"I was just thinking how unusually pretty yours looks. Did you make it yourself?"—Brooklyn Life.

How It Was Done.

"I thought Miss Pimplefig figured on marrying Jack."

"So she did, but another girl with more money outfigured her."—Smart Set.

Envy is not only a great weakness, but it is a great ignorance too. No man envies what he can surpass or equal.

Coming Attractions

Tremont—Henry W. Savage's brilliant production of "The Prince of Pilsen," the most successful musical comedy of modern times came back to the Tremont Theatre Monday for an engagement of three weeks, and Boston playgoers are having an opportunity of enjoying the most talked of piece of the kind on the stage today. There is so much sway, snap, color, dash and fire in the performance that nothing but praise has been said of this late work of Pixley and Luders. The music is remarkable for its great popularity and includes among other numbers, "The Message of the Violets," "Heidelberg," "Pictures in the Smoke," "Tale of the Sea Shell" and fifteen others which have gained popularity. John W. Ransome is playing the role of the German Brewer and Polly Guzman the American Widow. Next week will be the second of the engagement.

Globe Theatre—The latest and perhaps, one of the most cheering announcements of a season replete with attractions is that of the engagement of Charlie Grapewin at the Globe Theatre on Monday, of next week, for one week only. For "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp," with its verile breath of the Twentieth Century, its fascinating story, and its enthralling situations, at one time laughable in the extreme and anon softened by a fleeting glimpse of pathos—just enough to make the gayer moments stand out in more striking relief by contrast, its insinuating, charming melodies, its smiles, its pretty girls would certainly appear to have reached the limit of stage endeavor. The attraction announced to follow on Monday, March 21, will be the Virginia Earl Opera Co in the big success, "Sergeant Kitty."

Columbia Theatre—Rose Stahl's work in the third act of William Bonelli's fine production of "A Man of the World," in which Mr. Bonelli and Miss Stahl are starring and which will be the offering at the Columbia Theatre next week is remarkably strong and convincing, a fact perhaps not to be wondered at when it is considered that Miss Stahl is one of the best all around actresses on the American stage. Mr. Bonelli and Miss Stahl are both artists in the sense that natural gifts and a thorough and comprehensive training and education, make an artist of an actor, and they are singularly well equipped to interpret a play of the higher class such as "A Man of the World" undoubtedly is. Edward Harrigan in a big revival of "Old Lavender" is booked to follow.

POLLY GUZMAN as MRS. CROCKER, in "PRINCE OF PILSEN," At the Tremont Theatre.

Majestic Theatre—On next Monday at the Majestic Theatre, B. C. Whitney brings his superb production of Rice's latest and greatest success entitled "The Show Girl" or "Magic Cap," a musical comedy in two acts written for the Cadets a few seasons ago by R. A. Barnet. The production is a glittering spectacle as to scenic embellishments and magnificent costumes, and money has been expended with a lavish hand. Mr. Rice has long borne the reputation of furnishing to the play-goers of this country choristers, many of which have now risen into prominence on account of their beauty, and in this attraction, "The Show Girl" or "The Magic Cap," he has not overlooked this feature of this entertainment, and a large and youthful chorus of beauties is promised us. The company is a large one and is headed by the clever comedienne, Stella Mayhew and fifty-five others, including thirty singing and dancing girls.

NANCE O'NEIL, Special Matinees Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, At TREMONT THEATRE.

Colonial Theatre—The most successful productions presented in New York during the past three years have been Klaw & Erlanger's Drury Lane spectacles, the greatest of which "Mother Goose," comes to the Colonial Theatre, for a run Monday, the 21st inst. "Mother Goose" fairly teems with merit and presents the unique idea of relating a serious moral theme in an entirely comic way, interpolated with musical specialties of a very interesting character. The music is particularly fascinating and possesses an unusually strong popular interest. The great art ballet, "L'Art Nouveau," at the end of the first act, the ballets "The Land of Frost" and "Heartsease" in the second, and the beautiful transformation, "Contentment," shown at the end of the third act, represent the most artistic conceptions in ballet and transformation features ever seen on the American stage.

Park Theatre—Everybody who is going to Boston nowadays should not fail to make the enjoyable acquaintance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," who made her delightful bow in footlight form at the Park Theatre on Monday evening last, and scored an unqualified hit. The dear old lady is ideally realized, in all her cheerfulness, kindness and motherliness, in the beautifully sympathetic impersonation by Madge Carr Cook, who has caught the very spirit of that quaint amiable character and captivated the enthusiastic audience in her picturesquely poverty stricken cottage at the beginning of the comedy. All the familiar and famous characters, indeed, of Alice Hegon Rice's two little masterpieces of "Mrs. Wiggs" and "Lovey Mary" pass in front of the spectators, in this most happily made dramatization, as realistically and sympathetically attractive as they have hitherto been for New Englanders in the original stories. The Liebler and Co. cast is, in truth, so admirably fitted to these odd types throughout that almost everyone of the twenty six players received a special demonstration of approval and applause from the big first night gathering. In its skillfully blended elements of humor, fun, heart sentiment and unique eccentric realism, this play is easily one of the most enjoyable play novelties that has been enjoyed upon the stage of a New England theatre for many a day.

Grand Opera House—Next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House will be the musical absurdity, "Looping the Loop," founded on the sensational feature of the ride around the Loop the Loop on a bicycle. This farce is made up of characters taken from the comic Sunday papers and is a vehicle of laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain. You will see Montmorency, Happy Hooligan's brother, Foxy Grandpa, Tumble Tom, Uncle Heiney, The Captain, Mrs. Katzenjammer, Lady Bountiful, Gloomy Gus and The Policeman, each of whom will be readily recognized. The scenes of the play are laid at Mrs. Katzenjammer's summer hotel; at Coney Island, showing the real Loop the Loop; and at Lady Bountiful's Home. There will be the customary matinees at this theatre on Tuesday, Thursday, Evacuation or St. Patrick's Day, and Saturday.

Hub Theatre—During the present theatrical season many melodramatic plays have been offered for judgment by the theatre going public. Some have lived but a few performances while others have gone on from week to week playing to enormous business in every city visited. In order to secure time over the celebrated Stair and Wilbur circuit of theatres a play must possess considerable merit and be of a sort to entertain theatre goers all over the country. Such a play is "In the Shadow of the Gallows," which will be presented for the first time in Boston at the Hub theatre next week. The play has been out all season and has won for itself a most enviable record, having received the endorsement of newspaper critics and also the praise of a discriminating public. The comedy element has been well cared for in the preparation of the play, and the piece is splendidly mounted in the way of stage accessories.

Music Hall—Making revivals of plays which have been successful in former years is sometimes a disastrous undertaking, but when Messrs. Spencer and Aborn decided to revive "M'Liss," the play which brought Annie Pixley the bulk of her great fortune, with Nellie McHenry in the title role, they made no mistake, for in the four years that the play has been under their direction it has been wonderfully successful, and those who saw it at Boston Music Hall last season will learn with pleasure of its return to that theatre next Monday. The management has not only surrounded Miss McHenry with a thoroughly competent company, but they have also given the revival a remarkably handsome production.

Letter to Dwight Chester,

Newton Centre

Dear Sir: Three churches in Baldwinville, N. Y. have had their first lesson in Devoe.

Messrs. Osterhout & Lockwood painted the Presbyterian parsonage; estimated 30 gallons; took 22.

Messrs. Slingerland & Shutter painted the Episcopal church; estimated 40 gallons; took 28.

Same painters painted the Catholic church; estimated 50 gallons; took 39. Of course, they estimated from what they had been using. The saving in paint and work is $4 or $5 a gallon. Total saving on three jobs $125 to $150—the painting costs two or three times as much as the paint, you know.

Yours truly

COINS OF THE PAST.

Gold Pieces That Were Once Common, but Are Now Rarely Seen.

Recent mention of the disappearance of the $2.50 gold piece from circulation and the premium this coin commands as a curio has set many to rummaging in old pocketbooks and bottoms of cash boxes and drawers in search of old or out of date coins. Some have found a $2.50 piece, but not many. The $3 piece, once quite common, but always a sort of curiosity, is oftener found, and many have specimens of the little gold coins which were not minted by the government and probably have not so much gold in them as they represent. They used to pass as coin, but were never in general circulation, being so easily lost that they soon became scarce. One of the handsomest coin relics seen is a $10 gold piece bearing the mint stamp of 1790. It is larger than the present $10 piece. The owner has it hung in a band and wears it as a charm on his watch chain. The owner says he refused an offer of $150 for this relic. The old octagonal $50 pieces were quite common in California in early days, when gold dust was largely used as a circulating medium. They were made of pure gold, and while they had not the elegant flush of the gold coins minted by the government in these days, many still remember them as the handsomest coins they ever saw. Many people now would consider them handsome on account of the $50 in them.—New York Tribune.

BURNING THE YULE LOG.

The Custom One of Ancient Origin.

The Yule Candle.

The custom of burning a large log of wood which is known as the Yule log is very ancient in its origin. All through the middle ages every farmhouse, cottage and castle in England burned its Yule log upon the hearth, the log being dragged in with much ceremony.

At Yuletide when the great log flamed in chimneys and laugh and jest went round.

The word "Yule" itself seems to be derived from the Anglo-Saxon "feol" meaning December. Earlier still the Yule, or midwinter, feast is seen in its most flourishing state among the Norsemen, who commemorated the fiery sun wheel with a mighty feast. They believed that during the twelve nights from Dec. 25 to Jan. 6 they could trace the actual movements of their great Odin, or Odhinn, the god of storms, and other deified beings on the earth. The Yule log, with its cheery blaze, comes to us across the centuries as a dim memory of the fires lit to celebrate the setting out of the sun on his northward journey toward the light and warmth of summer.

A large candle known as the Yule candle used also to light the Christmas eve festivities. It was a bad omen if the candle burned out before the evening was at an end.—Detroit Free Press.

ALWAYS BE SANGUINE.

Keep to the Highways and Shun the Back Alleys of Life.

Keep to the broad highways of hope and cheerfulness. Expect to succeed. Think success, and you will succeed. Keep out of the back alleys of gloom and pessimism. Join the procession of the cheerful, the willing and the hopeful. Be sanguine. Know the pleasures of living. Enjoy the sunshine of hope.

Keep away from the scavengers and rhapsodists who infect the back alleys of life. Your pessimist is your scavenger, your rhapsodist. He may be a necessary evil, a boil as it were on the body social, but too much of him is fatal. He never gave the world a smile. He never contributed to the good cheer of any human being. He never lifted the gloom from any distressed soul. He is the antithesis of progress. He is the pollywog which in the evolution of life is continually dragging backward toward the slimy past, resisting the progress of development which must go on with or without him.

Beware of the encroachments of the carping, pessimistic spirit. It is a hardy plant. It takes root easily in the mind, and, like the thistle, when once it gains a foothold it is well nigh impossible to uproot it, but it cannot live in an atmosphere of sunshine and cheerfulness. Therefore, keep to the highways. Keep out of the back alleys.—Exchange.

Children's Weight.

Some curious experiments have been made at one of the royal philanthropic institutions in Copenhagen. For some years back the seventy boys and girls in the place have been carefully weighed every day in groups of fifteen and under. Thereby it is proved that the children gain weight mostly in autumn and in the early part of December. From that time till the end of April there is scarcely any increase in weight. More remarkable still, there is a diminution till the end of summer.

Hobson's Choice.

"Tom I've been bidden to her wedding, but I'm not going."

"Dick—But your absence will surely be noticed. Do you think you can afford that?"

"Tom—Well, when you can't afford to have your presents noticed your absence is imperative."—Philadelphia Press.

Where It Should Begin.

"But why do you have your hero marry in the first chapter?" they asked. "Because," replied the author, "it has always seemed absurd to me to end a novel just where a man's troubles really begin. That's where you should begin the story."—Chicago Post.

When a man tells you that all women are delusions and snarls, it's doubtful to judge he has been snared by a delusion.—Cooking Club.

Prof. Moulton's Lectures.

Prof. Richard G. Moulton, who has been lecturing at Eliot church the past week on the Bible is unique owing to the fact that his addresses while showing the deepest intellectual thought and the training of a student mind still are couched in the simplest and plainest language easily understood by the large audiences which have come to hear him and have packed the church to its utmost capacity. He describes the Bible as the greatest book in the world composed as it is of history, drama, tragedy, lyric and ethnic poetry and states that there are three classes under which it may be read and studied, viz. the theological and devotional, the higher criticism and as literature. Friday night he spoke on "The Literary Study of the Bible," and Sunday morning he read the Book of Deuteronomy, an "Oratorical Drama." During this address he stated that Deuteronomy in connection with the Psalms was the storm centre to the religious discussion of the present day. On Monday evening he spoke on "The Bible as a Story Book," this conception being a proper introduction to the various books from a historical standpoint. In many cases he emphasizes his point and makes his meaning clear by reciting certain portions in a manner both dramatic and impressive. This evening by special request he will consider the last book of the New Testament, "The Apocalypse of St. John."

—Mr. Charles Otis Tufts, an old resident of this place, passed away at his home on Prescott street last Friday after a long period of ill health, aged 72 years. He was a native of Charlestown and was formerly employed as a bookkeeper in Boston. A son, Percy H. Tufts and a daughter, Miss Helen B. Tufts survive him. Funeral services were held from the house Monday at 2 o'clock. Rev. O. S. Davis officiating assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Plumb of Boston and the interment was at Forest Hills Cemetery.

—Two alarms from box 227 last Tuesday afternoon was for a fire in the ell of the house located at 264 Lowell avenue owned by F. S. Rollins and occupied by W. C. Hale. The cause was children playing with matches. The fire was largely confined to the upper story and roof and with the damage from smoke and water caused a loss of about $500. While responding to the second call one of the horses attached to steamer one fell on the ice and sustained cuts and bruises about the forelegs and shoulders.

Letter to E. N. Soule, Newton.

Dear Sir: Let's have a little private talk by ourselves on business; nobody else, please, read.

You want to know how to do a cheap job of painting, and have it look good. Here it is: The cheapest thing there is in the way of a good-looking job—say nothing about its being good—is Devco: the regular thing in Devco.

The reason is: Devco goes further than anything else. Lead-and-oil is good-looking; don't go so far and costs more. The other paints are more or less short in one way or another; don't go so far and costs more than Devco.

Devco costs least of all; you don't mind its lasting longer, do you? We can't help it; a paint that goes further lasts longer; we can't help it.

Yours truly, J. W. Devco & Co.

For sale by J. M. Briggs and Son, Newton; W. E. Tomlinson, West Newton; and McWain and Son, Newton Centre.

Coming Attractions

Tremont Theatre—London is to have an opportunity of passing judgment on the best of musical comedies of recent years, for "The Prince of Pilsen" is to open at the Shaftsbury Theatre early in May for a run, and when it leaves Boston at the end of its present engagement, of which there remains but one week, it will be months before Henry W. Savage's superb organization will be seen in this country again. That manager has made an arrangement whereby all of his musical comedies and comic operas are to be produced in England. "Prince of Pilsen" goes to London with the warmest wishes of Boston players for its success. All in all, it is the best company Mr. Savage has ever sent to Boston to present this work. The demand for seats is enormous. There remain but six night and two matinee performances before the engagement closes. On March 28 Mr. Savage will present "Peggy from Paris" at the Tremont.

Columbia Theatre—There is probably no actor on the American stage at the present time that is any greater or beloved by the great mass of theatregoers throughout the country than Edward Harrigan. His name is almost a household word in every theatregoing family from the Atlantic to the Pacific and it will be welcome news to many Boston theatregoers to learn that Mr. Harrigan comes to the Columbia Theatre next week for an engagement of one week in "Old Lavender." This play is one of the best that Mr. Harrigan ever produced, and whenever he has made a revival of the old play it has invariably met with success. The usual matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

Music Hall—Harry Clay Blaney's "Across the Pacific" will be the attraction at the Boston Music Hall next week. The play is built around incidents of the war in the Philippines, and it abounds with startling situations; in fact the author has crowded one scene of excitement upon another with wonderful cleverness. Thousands of people are afforded a glimpse of war and the terrible realities of such a conflict as the Government has been engaged in on the other side of the world. The stage pictures, the Philippines, the Chinese, the sailors, the soldiers, all teach valuable lessons. The plot of "Across the Pacific" centres about the love interests of Joe Lanier and Bud Stanton, the latter a villain of the deepest dye.

Majestic Theatre—The long heralded engagement of that well-known comedian, Nat M. Wills, begins at the Majestic Theatre on Monday evening of next week, and will continue for two weeks. This will be Mr. Wills' first appearance in Boston as a star and he will present for the first time in this city his great musical comedy success "A Son of Rest." The piece has scored one of the biggest hits of the present theatrical season. It is in two acts and is described as one of the funniest concoctions of mirth and music that the American stage has seen in a long time. Mr. Wills, during his long career as a vaudeville headliner, became popular as the principal exponent of "tramp" characters, and in this connection it may be safely said that he has no equal in this particular line of work.

Park Theatre—The Boston Globe's declaration that "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" is the most successful dramatized novel since Trilby would seem to be amply confirmed by the laughing hit and unique appeal to New England players which that decided play-novely has scored at the Park Theatre. Seldom has any dramatic presentation of quaint types provoked such spontaneous mirthfulness as is invariably the case with the spectators who make this theatrically conducted tour to the now famous Patch by the foot of the route of the Lieber and Co. dramatization of Alice Hegan Rice's humorously amusing stories.

Globe Theatre—Dainty Virginia Earl is now an established and successful comic opera star, a position which the clever little lady is eminently fitted to adorn. In her comic opera "Sergeant Kitty" she has scored a genuine hit of the most pronounced sort. The part of "Kitty La Tour," a pretty, wilful, and altogether fascinating young woman whose airs and graces coupled with her mischievous tendencies to play larks, keeps a whole regiment of French Hussars on the jump for a time, is one which Miss Earl is peculiarly adapted to play as it affords plenty of opportunities for the display of her ability as a comedienne and admits of her singing a number of catchy songs in her own inimitable manner. The play is a rare attraction for a Globe Theatre, Boston, for a Globe engagement, commencing Monday, March 21st.

Colonial Theatre—Klaw and Erlanger will transfer their mighty vaudeville spectacle, "Mother Goose," from their New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, to the Colonial Theatre next Monday in its entirety. Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger, the managers of "Mother Goose," have heretofore presented "The Beauty and the Beast" and "Ben Hur," but in this latest production all its predecessors have been eclipsed. No matter what one may have seen in any portion of the world in stage entertainment, nothing can compare from any viewpoint with this magnificent spectacle. The entire performance is an intoxicant to the eye, being an iridescent dream of beauty, one magnificent picture following the one preceding it until it becomes a kaleidoscopic fairyland, a wonder to the vision, while the ear is charmed by continuous catchy melodies, and a magical night of laughter is evolved by its great comedians, its trained singers, its legion of beautiful femininity and its wondrous dancers.

Grand Opera House—"Soldiers of Fortune" as dramatized for the stage by Augustus Thomas from Richard Harding Davis' thrilling and fascinating story of adventure, will be seen at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. It tells a vitally interesting story which carries the audience along with a sweep and a whirl that is irresistible. The four scenes of the play are laid in South America and the stage settings are really tropical in beauty having been made from photographs of scenes in the vicinity in which the action of the play transpires.

Prizes for School Children.

A novel competition is offered by the management of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at the Park Theatre. The school children of Boston and suburban cities are given the opportunity to win a prize of $5 in gold for the list of the greatest number of words which can be made from the letters composing the title of this popular play. No one letter can be used more times than it appears in the words "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," but those which are repeated twice in the title may be repeated twice in the words included in the list. Words of foreign languages are strictly forbidden. In addition to the $5 which is offered for the first winner there will also be two seats each for the children sending in the second and third largest lists. The award will be made by Miss Mabel Taliaferro, who plays Lovey Mary in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Funeral of Rev. Lewis P. Cushman.

At the Newton Methodist church last Monday afternoon the funeral of Rev. Lewis P. Cushman was held and was attended by representative clergymen of every section of New England. The services were at 2 o'clock, Rev. George R. Grose, pastor of the church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Scott F. Hershey of Boston and Rev. George W. Mansfield of Brookline. Prayer, Scripture reading and brief eulogies by the officiating clergymen comprised the exercises, with the singing of "Psalms of Victory," "Fare, Fare Each Earthly Joy," and "When the Roll is Called in Heaven," by a quartet comprising Mrs. G. W. Barber, Mrs. Hiram Leonard, Fred Parke and G. W. Barber.

At the close of the services the remains were taken to the Newton cemetery for interment. The pallbearers were Messrs H. S. Leonard, R. D. Fuller, F. O. Barber and B. O. Atkins, all of this city.

—Mrs. E. G. Williams and children of Central street returned Saturday from Florida. They will move later to Washington where Mr. Williams is engaged in engineering work.

—Extensive improvements are to be made to the theatre at Norumbega Park this season. The stage will be moved back, more seats will be put in and a roof will be built over them.

—W. A. Bobb of Hudson street, Boston, a painter by occupation, fell in an epileptic fit at the railroad station last Sunday evening. He was removed to the Newton hospital in the ambulance.

—A pretty dance was held in Norumbega hall last Friday evening from 8 to 12 o'clock. Miss Belle Hale and Miss Perkins and Miss Hayes were in charge of the affair. P. Cole's orchestra provided the music.

—The 14th anniversary of the Union Rescue Mission, of which Mr. F. F. Davidson is president, was held in Boston last Friday evening. Mr. Davidson reviewed the history of the organization and spoke of the work of the past year.

—An appreciative audience filled Norumbega hall last Monday evening when Eleanor Maud Crane's three act comedy "Just for Fun" was presented by local talent under the auspices of the Auburndale Village Improvement Society. —A call for funds to carry on the work of the Newton Centre vacation school next summer has been issued. Unless a sum amount is raised it will be impossible to start the school this year. Established four years ago by the Newton Centre Woman's Club, individuals, clubs and improvement associations, the school has been a great success. The Newton Centre Woman's Club, it is stated in the call for funds, possesses an outfit altogether too valuable to be laid aside because of lack of funds. The whole equipment, which is comparatively new, represents an outlay of several hundred dollars.

Slightly Used
Ivers & Pond Pianos
We have a few desirable pianos of our own make that have had slight use in one way or another. We frequently loan new pianos for use at recitals or rent them to careful people; and sometimes have pianos returned from our dealers' warehouses. In many cases such slight use as the pianos have had is really an advantage, as the action and strings get thoroughly settled, and will wear and stand in tune better for it. Some of these can hardly be told from new. Easy payments; a list of our bargains in used pianos might interest you. Send for it.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

Is Governor Bates to see a third term? That is one of the vital questions now agitating those who interest themselves in the public affairs in Massachusetts. A year ago there would not have been force enough behind such a proposition to have put an interrogation point at its close.

Today it is an open question as was demonstrated in the committee room last week where the Agricultural Committee heard the advocates and remonstrance on what is called the governor's bill, which practically abolishes the State Board of Agriculture. That was the last of a series of measures that have come before the legislature and that may be said to have been instigated by Governor Bates and have received a very different reception from that which was evidently anticipated.

Had the legislature been ultra-democratic it could have hardly been more antagonistic to his excellency than has been the body, three-fourths of whom voted enthusiastically for John L. Bates a year ago. It may be said that the great and general court has given the cold shoulder to about every suggestion made by the governor; made undoubtedly in good faith and in most instances with wise forethought and with an eye single to the public welfare. The course of the governor has not been remarkable or exceptional in the slightest degree. From time immemorial the same course has been taken by the governors of Massachusetts. The annual inaugural addresses of the executives have always included suggestions and recommendations to the legislature and in some instances to the exclusion of any other matter. Why then this unusual demonstration over the suggestions and recommendations of Governor Bates?

The causes are not far to seek. Not until Governor Crane took his pen to write his first message has a governor of the state disturbed the serenity of existing conditions. If there is anything that will disturb a man it is to be shaken when he is having a pleasant dream. Every suggestion made by Governor Bates has disturbed the sleepers. Just apply that proposition to the following list and see if it does not fit:

1. Requiring savings banks to place their deposits on interest monthly.

2. Take 50 per cent of the liquor license fees for the state treasury instead of 25 as at present.

3. A direct tax on inheritances.

4. A portion of the corporation tax for the state.

5. Re-organization of the State Board of Agriculture.

Everybody must admit that each of these propositions have two sides to them, with the preponderance of probability decidedly with the suggestion. For example; why should not deposits in the savings banks go on interest monthly? To be sure it would necessitate a little more work but it is not evident to the passer by that the force in a savings bank is overworked. No one ever saw one of those institutions without a lounge and much-worn easy chairs. So on through the list, in every case there is ground for the recommendation and yet the action of the legislature will hardly suggest the scripture where it says, "One will chase a thousand and two will put ten thousand to flight."

About every governor since the reader can remember has favored women's suffrage and the measure has received respectable support in both house and senate each year, but this year when Governor Bates said a good word for the measure it was not even granted a decent debate. There has been no able house of representative in twenty-four years, and but one as able, as the present, and yet, so far as it has acted upon the governor's suggestions, the legislature of 1904 is likely to develop a wider and more significant independence than has ever yet been known in this Commonwealth.

If the conduct of the legislature foreshadows future action in the state at large, Governor Bates is serving his last term.

While the committee on public health was considering the cigarette bill last week one of the young members of the house stood in the doorway of the committee room smoking a cigarette with the vacant stare that generally possesses a cigarette smoker. As one of the speakers was telling how a cigarette smoker could generally be distinguished by the stain on his fingers and the glassy look in his eye, our young friend thrust his hand into his pocket, closed his eyes and turned away with the remark: "Gad, I'm one sure enough." The absence of the usual throng at the hearing this year was remarked. Where were all those who have been so solicitous about boys and girls who are being ruined by cigarettes? Certainly the ruin is going on, never more marked than today and the legislature never had a committee more anxious to answer public demands for the suppression of the evil than the present committee, yet the room was not half filled last week, and half of those present were evidently indifferent about the matter.

In support of the assertion made here a week or two ago that the committees were making very slow progress there this year, is a remark of a member of the ways and means committee, that they had not done ten days work in the last five weeks. Of course this was because other committees were sending the Ways and Means so little. Matters are being held back by those who have a grip on the machine and they are being held back for machine purposes. The fact should be well remembered that there is a machine at the state house as well as in other localities, and that the belt can be thrown on or off at the pleasure of those who stand at the point of contact. The legislature will adjourn not earlier than June 20th as it now looks.

An unprecedented action of a committee occurred last week when the Committee on Counties presented a bill authorizing an expenditure of $750 of the state funds to pay for the printing and distributing of a history of the officials of Middlesex County. Nobody ever heard that a private history relating to a given locality has ever before been printed by the state. It certainly is establishing a very remarkable precedent and one likely to be taken advantage of for other localities; that is if the legislature endorses the action of the committee and the governor does not step in with a veto. There is an opportunity for many a slip between many a committee action and the governor's pen.

The order that Representative Bennett of Boston introduced in the house to the effect that the Committee on Rules consider the qualifications of T. F. Curley as a member of the house suggests that Curley has some disqualifications. Mr. Curley has simply been convicted in United States Courts of violating a law of the United States, and is only out of jail and voting in the Massachusetts legislature because he has taken an appeal. It can not be denied that a convict is assisting in making laws in the Massachusetts legislature.

Funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Jackson.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Chapin Jackson, wife of Mr. W. M. Jackson, was held Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. William W. Jackson, Mill st, Newtonville. The service was conducted by the Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, the impressive service of the Episcopal church being used. "Lead, Kindly Light," "Abide with Me," and "Whittier's," "Eternal Goodness" were rendered by the Mendelssohn quartet. The abundance of floral tributes testified to the loving esteem in which Mrs. Jackson was held by her many friends. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

Paint That Will Wear.

Among the new advertisements in this week's issue is that of the Heath and Milligan Mfg. Co. Their advertisement calls attention to BEST PREPARED PAINT. A paint that has been manufactured by them for over half a century. A paint that will not wear and out last any other paint made. A paint made by practical manufacturers in a practical manner and practically endorsed by practical painters. Such a paint cannot fail to please and you are invited to call at the store of C. H. Campbell, Stevens building, Nonantum Square to talk the matter over with him. Mr. Campbell carries a full line and will be pleased to give you any information desired.

Police Paragraphs.

A close watch was kept over the licensed drug stores all over the city last Sunday by orders of Mayor Weed.

Clothes, silverware and money were taken from the residence of Mr. James A. Irving, Boyd street, last week, during the absence of the family.

High School Notes.

C. R. Leonard was elected a member of the executive committee of the N. E. Interscholastic Association of Amateur Athletes last Saturday.

A large crowd of enthusiasts witnessed the interscholastic meet at Mechanics Hall, Boston, last Saturday afternoon. The school won third place in the summary with 10-13 points to its credit. Ten of these points were made by C. R. Leonard who won the 40 yd dash and the 45 yd hurdles with ease. Merrybrow captured second place in the 300 yd run, and Stephenson, the second place in the shot put, and tied for third in the pole vault. In the team races Newton was easily beaten by Brookline High. Whittaker won a heat in the 40 yd preliminaries.

At the Theatres

Coming Attractions

Park Theatre—A Japanese Souvenir Night is the peculiarly timely novelty announced for the celebration of the twenty-fifth performance of that unique character comedy, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," at the Park Theatre, Boston, where the play seems to have firmly established itself as a popular favorite with New England playgoers. The lobby of the Park Theatre will be decorated on Monday evening, March 28 next, in highly Oriental style, with the colors of the Mikado, the flag of the Land of the Rising Sun, exact imitations of Japanese battle flags, and plenty of chrysanthemums embowering all. There can be no wonder at the big success which has been scored by this novelty of footlight offering, a piece that stands in a distinct place by itself. In its unconventional figures and surprisingly original treatment of a queer corner of human life, the Cabbage Patch, typical of cheerful, even though hard struggling poverty, it deserves special note among all the varied current attractions that seek either to amuse through humor or to edify through realism.

Boston Music Hall—Pastoral plays have always proved popular with the many patrons of Boston Music Hall who find in them a welcome relief from sensationalism. The most successful play that has been at Music Hall this season was "Sky Farm," and it was so favorably received upon its first visit that steps were immediately taken to secure an early return date, which also proved eminently successful from a box office standpoint. Another play, which is said to be built along similar lines, comes to Music Hall on Monday afternoon of next week. This is W. E. Nankerville's production of the charming pastoral comedy drama, "The Village Parson." The play is splendidly staged and is presented by an excellent cast.

Keith's Theatre—Another big vaudeville show is scheduled for Keith's the week of March 28, the list containing the names of some of the best-known and most talented entertainers in the country. Among them is Sidney Grant, who has not appeared east of New York in nearly three years. He is one of the most versatile mimetic comedians in the varieties and a pronounced matinee favorite. Others are Katherine Bloodgood, the noted oratorio singer, a handsome and talented vocalist; the Four Boises, aerial acrobats, in a sensational casting act; Lewis McCord and company, in the comedy sketch, "Her First Rehearsal," Eva Mudge, the "Clever

he popularity of the airs in "Peggy from Paris" speaks for their catchy quality. The composer is Wm. Lorraine, whose "Zamora" and "Salome" gave him distinction before he added to his fame by his work in "Peggy from Paris," as for the company, the scenic effects, the stage equipment, the public will need only to be told that "Peggy from Paris" is under the management of Henry W. Savage to know that everything will be of the highest order of excellence.

Letter to A. V. Harrington, Newton.

Dear Sir: The cheap paint to buy is the one that covers more than you think; the cheap one to wear is the one that is young when old.
Mrs. Moore, of Kelsey, N. Y., bought 16 gallons Devoe to paint her house two coats; her painters said it would take that. Had 6 gallons left.
Mr. James Ackley's house, in Cairo (Catskill Mountains), N. Y., was painted Devoe; it wore 14 years; and the paint was in good condition then. He was going to paint, the last we knew, though. That's the way to preserve a house; repaint when there's no occasion.

Yours truly
P. W. Devoe & Co.

BEAUTY VERSUS ART.

Helen Lowell's Old Maid in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," at the Park.

Colonial—In the magnificent production of the Drury Lane spectacle, "Mother Goose," which is now running at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, Klaw and Erlanger have reached the crowning glory of stage beauty and magnificence, for never on any stage have we had such a mighty beauty spectacle and marvel of gorgeous magnificence in evidence. "Mother Goose" is staged in three acts and seventeen scenes, and is played by principals, chorus ballet and auxiliaries numbering 400. There are two great ballets presenting 350 people in artistically gorgeous costuming and a troupe of 24 beautiful women dancers. There will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees, and during the "Mother Goose" engagement the curtain will rise at 7:45 in the evening, and at 2 o'clock sharp at matinees.

Grand Opera House—"The Great Train Robbery," next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House is a splendidly staged story of frontier life and it reproduces with startling fidelity the lion-hearted, keen-eyed, sure-handed scout and cowboy with the Indian chiefs and braves who confronted them in all the savage decoration of war. Then, too, these unique makers of history are surrounded with marvelous fac-similes of the actual scenes in which they struggled, masterly reproductions of the grand Rocky Mountain scenery, triumphs of stage craft and the painter's skill. There will be the customary matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Globe Theatre—Comic opera with its gorgeous trapping, its stirring music, its atmosphere of romance and chivalry, its fair women and brave men, will be the attraction at the Globe Theatre again next week, when the Virginia Earl Opera Company opens its second and last week in "Sergeant Kitty." Theatre goers, surfeited with musical comedies that are not musical have greeted it with open rejoicing and acclaim. The most striking elements of "Sergeant Kitty" are originality of construction, a crisp, bright book and lyrics, tuneful, "whistley" music, brisk action, picturesque settings and beautiful stage pictures. The atmosphere is, to some extent, military, but there is always a most interesting love complication, and a little seasoning of good, clean fun. Lulu Glaser, who recently appeared at another Boston theatre in "Dolly Varden," is the attraction announced to follow.

"military maid," who makes a quick change of costume with each of her songs; Mile. Latina, in a physical culture exhibition that will appeal to the ladies; and Franzanthis and Lewis, expert Mexican rifle and pistol shots. Digby Bell, the popular comic opera star, is underlined for the week of April 4.

Majestic Theatre—The attraction at the Majestic Theatre for next week is a continuation of the engagement of Nat. M. Wills, the merry tramp of vaudeville fame, who enters upon the second and last week of his engagement in "A Son of Rest." Messrs. Broadhurst & Currie—Mr. Wills' managers—have been most liberal in surrounding him with first class equipment scenically, a clever company in support, and an exceedingly large, well trained and pleasing chorus to look upon. Their rendering of the marches and the musical numbers are said to be effective. Mr. Wills in the character of a tramp presents an appearance that is extremely grotesque when he first enters upon the stage. The attraction announced to follow will be George W. Monroe in a sumptuous revival of his inimitable success, "My Aunt Bridget."

Columbia Theatre—One of the most successful of the sensational melodramas on the road this season has been "A Night in Chinatown," which comes to the Columbia Theatre next week. For three seasons this play has been before the theatre-going public of this country, and it has scored a most overwhelming success in every city in which it has been seen. The play is rather conventional in theme and the principal scenes are laid in the Chinese quarter of New York City. The play is said to be splendidly mounted, all of the scenery and accessories used in the production being carried by the management. The cast is an excellent one and includes a number of Boston favorites. The performance will be greatly enhanced by a number of clever specialties.

Tremont Theatre—General pleasure will be afforded to theatre patrons in the announcement that next Monday the witty, merry and melodious musical comedy "Peggy from Paris," will open an engagement at the Tremont Theatre in Boston. George Ade's wit is ceaseless in "Peggy from Paris," he has never written wittier, or more laughable lines than in this musical comedy, the characters are droll, the situations amazing, the dialogue sparkling in humor, as for the music,

The railroad commission of this state is now engaged in considering two matters of great interest to this city, and incidentally to the entire commonwealth, as the decisions in both cases involve fundamental questions which have now risen for the first time.

Probably the matter in which the public is more deeply interested is the petition of the Newton and Boston St. Rwy. Co. to abolish free transfers on its road. Numerous hearings have been held, the position of the Company maintained by able counsel, and the public have been represented by Village Improvement Societies and individuals. In brief, the Company contends that it has managed its line economically, has thoroughly reconstructed its road bed, but is annually
creating a large deficit on account of the large percentage of its transfer business. The opposing lawyers have sought to discredit the financial statements of the Company, and to show that the road is not giving satisfactory service. The claims of the Company are certainly supported by the figures presented and by the general street railway conditions throughout the state, but the railroad commission is causing the property of the Company to be expertly appraised and its books to be audited. Their decision will be based therefore on absolute knowledge, and not on the hearsay evidence which has been so widely accepted by the public during the past few weeks. We cannot refrain from expressing regret that apparently sane and sound citizens have aided the circulation of stories regarding the business integrity of the street railway officials, which if it had been applied to themselves would have aroused their deepest indignation. The mere fact that business men engage in street railway matters does not necessarily make them thieves and liars, as the public has apparently come to believe, and they are certainly entitled to the same fair consideration as men engaged in other lines of business. We believe that President Claflin and his associates are entirely within their rights in seeking to remedy a condition which prohibits them from earning a dividend. We believe that the Railroad commission will be upheld by the sound business men of this city if they can find some method of modifying the transfer system which will retain for the public as large a measure of protection in the future and assist the Company in their present dilemma. This, we believe, will be reached if transfers are abolished between the Newton and Boston Company and the Waltham line, and retained on the Lower Falls line.

The matter of abolishing the dangerous grade crossings on the South side is also of moment to this city.
Here we are antagonized, not as to method nor as to necessity, but simply as to the time when the work shall proceed. Other places have similar projects in view and the specious argument is made that only one such problem can be worked at a time.
Newton does not question the need of improvements in other localities, we have had too serious a situation here to take any such position. But Newton does claim that the present is a suitable time to inaugurate work in this city, simultaneously if need be,
with that in other cities. Our necessities in this respect are great and rapidly increasing, and any decision to postpone the work here now will mean a delay for many years. The state's appropriation is ample, the plan of work is agreed upon, the engineering problems are comparatively simple,
and the commissioners' approval
should be a matter of course.

A special meeting of the Minister's Union of Newton was held Monday afternoon in the parish house of Grace church to consider the appeal of residents of Brighton to aid them in resisting the multiplication of drinking saloons in that neighborhood. The claim was made that many of the patrons of these saloons come from Newton and that therefore Newton people should help Brighton to get rid of these drinking places. The members present at the meeting expressed their sympathy in the appeal and adopted resolutions protesting against the granting of any more liquor licenses in that part of Boston.

School Board.

The regular monthly meeting of the School Committee was held Wednesday evening with Mr. Gorham in the chair and 13 members present. The Superintendent acted as secretary pro tem.

The Supt's report presented considerable data regarding janitors but without any recommendation. He approves of the work of the head kindergartner who has been employed
but a short time and also favors the work done by the Supervisor of Writing. The matters of vacation school in the Jackson Building, the teaching of Latin in the 8th grade, the custom of payment of substitute teachers are touched upon and he closes with the report that no pupils have been excluded from the Barnard School for ringworm.

Permission was granted the Monday Club of Newton Highlands to use the Hyde School hall on April 4 for Children's day lectures on Birds and Bird Notes.

The use of the Jackson kindergarten room was granted two evenings a week for a girl's club under direction of Miss Caroline Eddy.

The Superintendent was requested to investigate the subject of Vacation Schools and report at the September
meeting.

The afternoon sessions of the primary and grammar schools after the April vacation were changed to 1:30
and 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. H. C. Sawin of the Bigelow
School was granted a leave of absence from June 15 to end of school year.

A long debate followed the presentation of an order to reduce the position of head master of the Claflin School to the grade of a junior master, carrying a reduction of salary from $2000 to $1200. The order was favored by the Finance Committee which submitted a schedule showing that the other head masters had charge of nearly 1000 pupils each while the Claflin district contained only 286. It was proposed to place the Claflin School in the Mann district under the mastership of Mr.
Chase. The order was opposed on the ground that such action would affect the efficiency of the school and as a personal attack on Mr. Sylvester, its master. After a discussion of nearly two hours, the order was refused passage by a tie vote.

Mrs. Charles S. Pulsifer.

The death of Mrs. Charles S. Pulsifer, at the home of her son-in-law,
Mr. W. S. Slocum, removed from our city one of our oldest residents.
Early in her youth, the family came from Boston, her birthplace, and located in what is now Newtonville.
Here she married and made it the home of her life until her ninetieth year. The family of Trowbridge, to one of the branches of which Mrs.
Pulsifer belonged, is much in evidence in the history of our town. She was the oldest and only daughter of Nathan and Charlotte Trowbridge, who had seven children, two of whom still survive. Though most of her generation have passed on she has never grown old but retained her youthful spirit to the last with few,
if any, outward signs of advanced age. Though she loved to recall former times she was interested in present events. Social in nature, she was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends, to whom her presence and companionship was most welcome and gracious.

Her early associations were with the people of Newton Centre where the family attended Sabbath worship.
Over thirteen years ago she united with the First Church in Newton and thus early began her religious life. When the Central Church was organized, she became connected with it and to the end of her life was most heartily interested in its welfare and prosperity. Rarely do we see such an example of consistency in Christian living and service. The Bible was the guide-book of her life. She loved to re-read the House of God. Her choicest companionship was in fellowship of the church. She believed in vital truths which she had heard from the pulpit in her youth. Her charity was so broad that it held her from narrow and severe judgment of those who differed from her. Bereavements came but she bowed beneath them with the grace of a beautiful submission and out of her experience responded quickly with ministrations of sympathy to others in sorrow.

The faith of her life brought calmness into her last days. With joy she anticipated her departure. The end was like herself—gentle, peaceful.
Sinking into unconsciousness, "she fell asleep."

The benediction of such a life abides leaving an impress upon all who knew her and especially on those in the intimacy of home life in her daily walk and conversation. Her children and grandchildren will arise and call her blessed.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs.
George F. Kimball and two sons,
Charles T. Pulsifer, of Newtonville and Nathan T. Pulsifer, of New York City.

PREPARING FOR SPRING.

Now is the time for all housekeepers to take preliminary steps in that important task—spring cleaning. Use Cabot's SULPHO-NAPHTHOL, generally throughout the house, especially in the cellar, about the sinks, the bath-room, toilets and for clearing the entire drainage system of all greasy, decomposing accumulations. SULPHO-NAPHTHOL is a great spring remedy for these places, for it kills all disease germs, foul, poisonous odors, etc., thus placing the house in a perfectly healthy condition. Then when spring comes there will be no active germs to breed disease and the work will be rendered much easier. SULPHO-NAPHTHOL is the most valuable agent the housekeeper has to maintain clean, healthy homes. It is far superior to soaps—it is in fact the ideal cleaner.

UNITARIAN CLUB.

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last week Thursday evening in the parlors of the Channing church, Newton. Supper was served at 6.30 and at the business session it was voted to raise the dues to $5.00. A nominating committee, composed of Messrs George H. Ellis, H. E. Bothfeld and A. H. Leonard was appointed to bring in a list of officers at the next meeting to be elected to serve for the coming year. Mr. William G. Ward of Boston then made an address on "The Clash of Two Civilizations—Russia and Japan." He gave interesting comparisons regarding the people, the conditions of the two countries and the events which led up to the present war. He stated that the Japanese were a noble, courageous, kindly people whose strength lay in their advanced educational system, their patriotism and their progressiveness. The Russian people are under the yoke of a despotic government and are compelled to fight under wretched conditions and against their will as they are naturally peace loving, mild and devoutly religious. Mr. Ward stated that as long as Japan controls the river boundary on the north and the supremacy at sea she can hold Korea but that it will be a difficult task to dislodge Russia from China which she already occupies in the northern portion to the Great Wall.

Death of Well Known Business Woman.

With the passing of Mrs. George F. Harrington whose death took place recently at the home of her daughter Mrs. George M. Warren in Newton, Boston loses one of its best known and most respected business women of the last half century.

The famous coffee house in School street over whose destinies she presided for so many years has a history that is unique, and no restaurant now in Boston fills the peculiar niche it occupied.

Here governors, literateurs and men of mark in many lines were accustomed to hobnob at her tables and partake of a cup of the famous coffee and pumpkin pie in the dim, gas-lit recesses of the historic restaurant. It was to this place that Emerson resorted for much of the plain living that accompanied his high thinking; in war time, Gov. Andrew when fatigued with the cares that rested upon him was wont to drop into Mrs. Harrington's and imbibe a cup of her fragrant coffee. Across the table frequently might be seen Ben Perley Poore enlivening those about him with one of his inimitable stories.

In a corner might be seen a man of slight frame, broad intellectual forehead and wonderfully large lustrous eyes. James T. Fields, it may be, would drop in for a moment from the Old Corner Bookstore, just below, and the two would chat quietly together over their cups of Mocha or Java. Everybody knew Fields, and many also knew his quiet companion as E. P. Whipple.

Nor was Gov. Andrew the only occupant of the gubernatorial chair who has often been seated at her tables. Gov. Boutwell, Gov. Banks, Gov. Gaston, Gov. Rice and Gov. Butler were all more or less regular habitués of the old coffee house; and in his day Vice-Pres. Henry Wilson when in Boston always made it a point to call and get a cup of the steaming beverage. Rufus Choate was a regular visitor; so was Judge Woodbury, O. W. Holmes, Booth and many other names known to fame.

Mrs. Harrington was a native of Maine and came to Boston in 1848; the first restaurant was established in Avon street a few steps from Washington street, the three or four marble topped tables being set with knives and forks of solid silver. The business was afterwards removed to School street, occupying the site where formerly stood the Cromwell's Head Tavern dating back to 1751. Here George Washington lodged in 1756 when on a mission to Gov. Shirley.

The historic lunch room ceased to exist about 15 years ago when the dingy old building was demolished to give place to more modern buildings. And now the genial, kind-hearted woman whose liberality fed the suffering Boston firemen night and day during the big fire of '72 has passed to her reward.

Literary Notes.

The March number of the National Magazine is at hand ten days late, but stronger and more attractive than any previous issue. The publishers were just ready to mail their March issue when fire completely wrecked their fine plant at 41 West First st, Boston, on February 18th. They made a second edition and got it on the market in ten days. In order to do this they scattered their work among a dozen Boston printing shops and worked night and day. This number sustains the National's reputation for growing better each month.

Among Women.

The regular meeting of the Newtonville Women's Guild was held Tuesday afternoon in the New Church parlors and took the form of a musical. The cantata "The Lady of Shalott" was given under the direction of Mrs. Philip W. Carter and Miss Elsie Bishop of Boston was the soloist. Mrs. Electa N. L. Walton read the poem and the singers were Mesdames S. G. Pulsifer, T. B. Lindsey, H. S. Chase, Herbert Warren, John Locket, T. E. Stutson, A. P. Carter, Miss Sallie Casey and Miss Catharine B. Enner. Tea was served.

The West Newton Woman's Educational Club held its regular meeting on March 11, in the Unitarian church. Mrs. Henrietta Frost of Winthrop gave a most interesting lecture on "New England Trees." Mrs. Margaret P. Kelley, accompanied by Mrs. Gertrude Lovell, favored the club with two selections on the violin.

A series of cooking lectures is to be given under the auspices of the Newton Ladies' Home Circle in Odd Fellows' hall, West Newton, on March 22, 29, April 5 and 11 at 2:30 p. m. Demonstrator, Miss Anna Barrows. Subjects, chafing dish, Easter breakfast, luncheon, Spring dinner.
